

Union Replies To AFL-CIO

Leaders Deny the Teamsters Are Corruptly Dominated

WASHINGTON (AP)—Teamsters Union leaders today denied their union is corruptly dominated. They also said they plan reforms at the union's coming convention.

That was the gist of the union's reply, given to the AFL-CIO Ethical Practices Committee, to federation charges against the truckers.

The Teamsters delegation arrived nearly an hour late for a hearing by the committee.

It was led by the union president, Dave Beck, and the Midwest Teamsters vice president, James R. Hoffa, heir-apparent to Beck as head of the 1½-million-member union.

Beck has announced he will not seek re-election at the union's convention opening Sept. 30 in Miami.

Beck is under indictment on charges of income tax evasion, and has been accused by the Senate Rackets Investigating Committee of misusing hundreds of thousands of dollars of union funds. He invoked the Fifth Amendment when called before the Senate group.

Hoffa was accused by the senators of loose handling of union funds and of association with racketeers. He did not invoke the Fifth Amendment when before the committee but repeatedly pleaded that he could not recall events.

Chairman McClellan (D-Ark.) finally dismissed Hoffa from the witness chair with the comment that it was useless to go on because "the witness has no memory."

The AFL-CIO charges that the Teamsters organization is substantially "dominated, controlled or influenced" by corrupt elements were based on disclosures against Beck, Hoffa and other Teamsters chiefs in the recent hearings before the Senate committee.

The statement which Beck, Hoffa and other Teamsters leaders gave the AFL-CIO group this morning said of the charges:

"Without attempting to summarize the allegations, it appears that none of them are of such magnitude as to support a belief that the International Brotherhood of Teamsters, as an entity, is 'dominated, controlled or substantially influenced in the conduct of its affairs by any corrupt influence.'"

Soviet Newspaper Attacks General's Book on World War

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Army newspaper Red Star today criticized Gen. Omar N. Bradley's memoirs, "A Soldier's Story," saying it did not give a fair account of Russian troops in World War II. The book has just been published in Russian.

In a review of the book, Red Star said that the allied field commander in Europe in World War II exaggerated the role of U. S. troops and "diminished by all possible means" the role of the Soviet Army. The paper also said Bradley was not fair to the British troops.

Red Star said the only thing worthwhile in the book was the opening section of extensive biographical and anecdotal information on allied leaders.

Late Bulletins

Orders Integration

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Federal Judge William H. Atwell today ordered Dallas public schools to start integration at mid-term, after the Christmas holidays.

Quintuplets on Way

LONDON (AP)—Roy Solly, a hotel cook, said today he has been advised by doctors that his wife will have quintuplets about Nov. 5. Solly, 30, makes 10 guineas ($29.40) a week. He and his wife, Lillian, 29, already have four children.

Ready to Adjourn

LONDON (AP)—The four Western powers and Russia today signified their readiness to adjourn the U. N. disarmament conference but failed to agree on a date for the resumption of negotiations to end the world's arms race.

Dio Gets Two Years

NEW YORK (AP)—John (Johnny Dio) Dioguardi, labor racketeer, and two other men were sentenced today to two years imprisonment each by General Sessions Judge John A. Mullen for conspiracy and bribery.

He Keeps His Promise

Alleged Kingpin of Narcotics Ring Ends Manhunt by Surrendering

NEW YORK (AP)—Harry Stromberg, alleged kingpin of a huge international narcotics smuggling ring, surrendered today in the office of U. S. Atty. Paul W. Williams, ending a search by narcotics agents.

Stromberg, alias Nig Rosen, described as a prominent racketeer figure in New York City, Philadelphia and Miami, was among 46 defendants named in a narcotics conspiracy indictment that was opened yesterday in the chambers of U. S. District Judge Edward Weinfeld.

He was tabbed the mastermind of an international narcotics ring netting up to 20 million dollars a year.

In surrendering, the 54-year-old Russian-born Stromberg kept a promise made through an attorney last night. The attorney contacted Williams and made arrangements for the surrender.

Narcotics agents had been searching the city for Stromberg without success.

Stromberg arrived at the federal courthouse accompanied by his attorney and immediately went to the prosecutor's office for questioning.

He was to be arraigned later before Judge Weinfeld, when he is expected to plead to the indictment and have bail determined.

In the indictment, 16 others were named as co-conspirators but not defendants. The indictment was returned Aug. 27 but kept sealed until yesterday to permit arrests.

Thus far, 12 have been seized here and one each in Atlantic City, N. J.; Baltimore, and Washington, D. C. The rest of the defendants are scattered throughout the United States. Three are serving prison terms on other charges.

The indictment, unsealed before U. S. District Judge Edward Weinfeld, charges the syndicate smuggled about 50 pounds of heroin—plus large amounts of cocaine and opium—each month from France and other countries.

Williams said the ring began operating in 1950 and has been under investigation for four years. He said the probe leading to the indictment involved U. S. agents and police in France, Britain, Italy, Belgium, Germany, Turkey, Cuba, Mexico, Venezuela and Canada.

Among those arraigned here yesterday before Judge Weinfeld on charges of conspiracy to violate the narcotics laws were three ex-customs inspectors. Pleading innocent were Herman Samnick, 45; Saul Snyder, 46; and Benjamin Danis, 49, all of New York City.

Samnick was held in $7,500 bail, and Snyder and Danis in $5,000 bail each.

The three men were fired July 18. They have appealed their dismissals to the Treasury Department and to the Civil Service Commission.

Last night Robert W. Dill, collector of customs here, said "we are confident that 99 out of 100 customs inspectors are honest and loyal to the service and to their fellow workers."

Promises 'No Whitewash'

Harriman Approves Probe Of New York Labor Camps

SYRACUSE, N. Y. (AP)—Gov. Averell Harriman has approved a new probe of conditions in New York State migrant labor camps. He promises there will be "no whitewash."

The recommendation for the probe was made yesterday by the Interdepartmental Committee on Migrant Labor, which is made up of heads of seven key agencies dealing with migrants.

"The National Assn. for the Advancement of Colored People says the Negroes in some of the 1,004 camps in the state are exploited and held in virtual peonage."

Harriman ordered the interdepartmental committee into action after the NAACP leveled its charges last week.

The committee met here yesterday. Herbert Hill, the NAACP's labor secretary, was the only witness. At the outset he said he was "fearful of a whitewash" by the committee.

Hill had accused operators of some upstate camps with maintaining a "20th Century slave racket."

The committee suggested that it appoint an "impartial person" to conduct the probe with instructions to report to Harriman within a month. Harriman said he would go along with the recommendation although he felt the committee could do it as well.

The group also made six other recommendations for improving the labor camp system. These were similar to a program advanced by Hill.

The recommendations ranged from improvements in housing and sanitary conditions to laws strengthening state agencies' power to curb any exploitation of workers.

Announcing this last night, the Public Health Service said "a program giving each state and territory its fair share of the vaccine seems to be the most equitable way of distributing the vaccine geographically throughout the country."

The Health Service said the six licensed manufacturers had agreed to this voluntary allocation system as proposed by Surgeon General Leroy E. Burney. The arrangement goes into effect at once.

The Health service endorsed a proposal that states and communities set up advisory committees to recommend what groups should get first inoculations of the still-scarce vaccine. Presumably these priority groups would include doctors, nurses, policemen, firemen and others needed to keep up essential services.

B-47 Bomber Makes Safe Belly Landing

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—A B-47 bomber slid to a safe belly landing today after flying 14 hours while crewmen tried to lower a stuck landing gear.

The plane was refueled five times during the 14 hours. Airmen at Little Rock Air Force Base, where the plane is based, spread 3,000 feet of foam on the runway to reduce the chance of fire and to provide a slick landing surface.

The pilot, Capt. R. W. Dupras of Glacier Park, Mont., dropped the plane on the runway two feet from the edge of the foam and the craft skidded 1,600 feet before stopping. None of the crew was injured. Damage to the plane was minor.

The crew tried 65 different methods of repairing the landing gear. During the flight, Boeing aircraft officials from Wichita, Kan., were in communication by telephone and radio suggesting ways to correct the malfunction.

Colonel Leads Newsman Away

Guardsmen Attempt Stopping Interviews

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP)—National Guardsmen called out to prevent integration at Central High School today tried to break up a New York newspaperman's interview with persons in a shouting, turbulent segregationist crowd estimated at 500—the largest this week.

None of the nine Negroes turned away by guardsmen yesterday appeared this morning.

It was the third morning that whites had gathered in front of the school in apparent support of Gov. Orval Faubus' conflict with a federal court order to integrate the 2,000-pupil white school—and they jeered Dr. Benjamin Fine, education editor of the New York Times.

Fine said that while he interviewed several persons an unidentified colonel approached and told him, referring to interviews: "If you do that again, you'll have to leave."

Demonstrators shouted, "He's from the North. He doesn't want the truth."

Fine continued his interviews—flanked by guardsmen—until the colonel personally escorted him across the street and onto the campus.

Maj. Gen. Sherman T. Clinger, adjutant general, later called a press conference behind the troops to warn newsmen: "You'll be arrested and fined if you do anything that might be inciting a breach of the peace."

The crowd cheered lustily when Clinger called the conference. Six Negroes, identifying themselves as students at Arkansas Baptist College here, were escorted from the school area. They said they came to the school to see what was happening.

The swiftly changing racial picture here took a new turn in the past 12 hours as Faubus said he understood that the federal government was plotting to arrest him.

The headquarters of President Eisenhower, who now is vacationing at Newport, R. I., said Faubus' allegation was "not correct."

The governor was not immediately available for comment. James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said there has been no discussion in Little Rock or Washington or any place else concerning an arrest of the governor.

Hagerty also said at Newport there is no truth to what he called another report that U. S. marshals or their deputies have been ordered to escort Negro children to school here.

Chamber Has Protested Katy Stopping

Coffee and Donut Session on Economy Classes Due Friday

The Sedalia Chamber of Commerce went on record protesting the proposed discontinuing of passenger rail service by the MKT railroad, based on the lack of necessary mail and express service north and south which would result from such an act. The protest was made by directors of the Chamber board at a meeting of the board Wednesday afternoon.

The Katy recently filed application with the Missouri Public Service Commission for authority to discontinue its two daily passenger runs from St. Louis to the Missouri-Kansas border, both of which go through Sedalia. The Booneville Chamber of Commerce has issued a similar protest.

The meeting was presided over by Vernon Rodick, president, who announced the date of the annual Chamber of Commerce banquet had been set for Nov. 7, and that new officers and directors for the coming year would be elected by the membership in the near future.

An announcement on the coffee and donut session to be held at 9:45 a.m. Friday was made by Ed Kehde, Jr., which he said he believed would benefit everybody.

Under the recreation and education division this economic educational program, on which George Morrison, of the United States Chamber of Commerce, will speak, has a great deal of merit and, Kehde stated, had gone over in other communities to such an extent that a number of classes had those who wanted to participate.

People are always asking what the Chamber does, Kehde said. This is an opportunity to learn about something the Chamber offers.

D. Kelly Scruton, director of aviation and military affairs, stated that a man from the Missouri Resources and Development Association had been in Sedalia making (Please turn to page 8 column 6)

Chilly Temperatures Over Most of State

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Clouds dotted the Missouri sky today and there were scattered showers in the southwest. The sporadic rains were expected to continue throughout the day.

Morning temperatures were comparatively chilly as a result of the clouds and a cool front which has been hanging on in the state.

Mid-morning readings ranged from 70 at Malden to 62 at Butler and Kirksville, with most of them in the 60s. Highs yesterday were comfortable. Joplin reported the top maximum of 87.

Names Miller State Prison Farm Director

JEFFERSON CITY (AP)—Col. James D. Carter, state corrections director, today chose William G. Miller, 36, former vocational agriculture teacher in the veterans' program at Linn, Mo., as director of prison farms.

Miller, recently employed by the National Hampshire Hog Registry at Peoria, Ill., replaces the late Paul V. Renz, who died last July. Renz had held the job through the administrations of both Republicans and Democrats for over 20 years.

Now the position is under Missouri's merit system, divorced from politics. The director of corrections chose him from among three candidates who stood highest in examinations for the job.

Canter said Miller is expected to take over about Oct. 1. The job has a pay scale ranging from $470 to $630 a month.

Miller attended Central Missouri State College at Warrensburg and graduated from the University of Missouri college of agriculture with a B. S. C. degree.

The other two candidates were Clarence M. (Jack) Kroeck, director of the state fair's swine show and farm director for radio station KLIK here, and Victor Grey of the State Department of Agriculture, former Monticau County extension agent.

Wreck Kills Jeff Citian Near Marshall

Victim Was Rider In Vehicle Driven By Sedalia Man

One person was instantly killed and occupants of the two vehicles involved in the accident three south of Marshall escaped injuries. The accident occurred about 3:30 p.m. Wednesday. The dead man was identified as Richard Hoyt, 60, address believed to be Jefferson City. Hoyt was a passenger in a car driven by Andy Burlingame, 2500 South Ingram.

According to the State Patrol, Burlingame, driving north on U. S. Highway 65 in a 1957 Mercury sedan, and a 1955 DeSoto sedan, being driven south by Robert Werth, 17, of Marshall, sideswiped on a curve and crest of a hill.

Trooper E. C. Hammerand, of the State Patrol in Marshall, reported after the cars sideswiped, Burlingame lost control of his machine and it swerved across the highway and crashed into an embankment. Hoyt was thrown out of the vehicle and as it started rolling backwards, it rolled on top of him.

Hoyt, it was said, died of a skull fracture. The body was taken to the Sweeney Funeral Home in Marshall.

No arrests were made pending a coroner's inquest by Dr. C. L. Lawess, coroner. The inquest has been set for Friday morning in Marshall.

According to the State Patrol, Hoyt had contacted Burlingame to go to Marshall to furnish bond of $600 for Irving Galloway, who is held in the Saline County Jail. Trooper Hammerand said Galloway was being held in connection with a shop-lifting charge at Marshall.

The left side of the DeSoto, was damaged and the Mercury was extensively damaged.

Governor Blair Lands Back in State Capital After Long Vacation

JEFFERSON CITY, Mo. (AP)—Gov. James T. Blair, looking tanned and fit, returned via Missouri National Guard plane last night from a long vacation.

Accompanied by Mrs. Blair, the governor arrived here from Gaylord, Mich., where he had spent the last three weeks.

The governor underwent surgery for prostate trouble July 15 at Mayo Clinic in Rochester, Minn., and then after a brief convalescence there he spent a week at Colorado Springs, Colo., before going to Michigan.

Blair said he felt fine and had been playing golf regularly. He said he would return to his desk today.

Blair had no comment on the Kansas City Power & Light Company strike, but said he had been advised of developments. Last week, Lt. Gov. Edward V. Long, acting governor during Blair's absence, used his executive power to seize the power company.

Sailor Drowns As Car Turns Over in Water

BROOKFIELD, Mo. (AP)—A 21-year-old sailor, home on leave, drowned in his car early today when it over turned in three feet of roadside water.

Dead was Kenneth Allen Payne of Purdin, Mo., stationed at the G'enviv, Ill., naval air station. He had been staying with a sister, Mrs. Murrell Ford of Mendon, Mo., while on leave.

Counts Number of Times Songs Are Played in Public

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—The chances are that, if asked to name the tune played most often in public in the last 10 years, you'd name the wrong one.

The right answer is "The Star Spangled Banner."

"It is played at least 225,000 times a month on radio and TV stations alone," said Israel Diamond, a slender, bald, 40-year-old accountant who is one of America's leading song statisticians.

Diamond is the logging director of Broadcast Music, Inc. His job is to find out how often each of the 150,000-plus BMI songs are played so that the composers or publishers who own the copyright can be paid.

This task, little understood by the public, is vitally important to the "June and moon" rhymers, a large chunk of whose income comes from the nation's radio and TV stations.

The work falls into two parts. A composer gets three cents from each station every time his tune is played over a TV or radio network. This is easy to figure out as the networks keep a complete list of every tune played.

Thus if you've written a tune entitled "It's Hard to Stay Straight When You Love a Wobbly-Hearted Girl," and a 150-station network plays it only once you'd get $4.50.

The difficulty lies in checking the country's 3,000 radio stations when they play music on nonnetwork or local programs. A tune played once on a local program nets the composer two cents.

Since it would be uneconomic to check them all, each month a scientific sampling is made of 100 stations. Each lists all tunes it played in that period.

Diamond and a staff of 50 logging editors then go over the lists and pick out the BMI tunes. Coded cards for the tunes are then put into data machines which electronically add and multiply the figures from the scientific sample to reckon the final payment.

One of the staff's small chores was to figure out a code name for the song, "You Two-Timed Me Once Too Often." They finally came up with this result: "U-2-X-Me-1-X-2-Often."

The log editors develop fabulous memories for song titles.

"I guess I can remember 35,000 to 40,000 songs offhand," said Ed Lecomte, 32, a former Broadway actor who has been a tune logger for eight years. "But no one in a lifetime could learn them all. There are millions of songs."

"No, I've never written one myself. I'm not very good at music, and anyway," he smiled, "trying to find a new title would seem even harder to me."

He has learned some odd lore about songs. Such as that the BMI files list some 450 songs that start "I love," but only 36 that begin "I hate." One of the latter, probably written by a dandyman, is, "I Hate You, Mississippi."

"Although 'love' is by far the word used most often in songs," remarked Lecomte, "religious interest also is showing up more and more in song titles. We have about 500 that start with 'Jesus.'"

Although BMI's staff also spot checks bands, ballrooms, football stadiums, restaurants, hotels, baseball parks and piped music systems to be sure their music isn't being pirated, more than 90 per cent of its income comes from radio and TV stations. It's two greatest money hits in recent years were "The Ballad of Davy Crockett" and "Tennessee Waltz."

After charting the performance of innumerable tunes, Diamond wryly admitted he sometimes is thinking of turning out a little ditty himself.

The title: "I'm Loaded with Love—What I Need is a Friend."

Robert Latham's Move to Venezuela

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Latham Jr. and son, Scott, left Sept. 4 for Maracaibo, Venezuela to make their home for a year. Latham, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert H. Latham, California, has been transferred from Houston, Tex., to Maracaibo as project engineer for the Pipe Line Technologist C. A. Maracaibo has a population of 400,000. Latham's company is building a 100-mile pipe line for the Shell Oil Co. It will be the largest oil pipe line in the world and will move as much oil in one day as 6,000 railroad tank cars can move in one day. It is not the longest line in the world but will have the largest pipe which measures 34 inches in diameter. The next to the largest oil pipeline is 32 inches and is in Arabia. There is a 36 inch gas line in the U.S.

Oil will flow through the pipe from Venezuela to the Caribbean Coast and there it will be loaded into tankers for shipment to Europe.

They are paying $450 per month for the three bedroom house they have rented there. Latham, who spent the past two months in Maracaibo, said that prices were more than double the U.S. prices but salaries are also fabulous.

Mr. and Mrs. Latham and Scott have been visiting his parents and attended their daughter's wedding which took place Thursday evening.

September Weather

The weather maps below give the U. S. Weather Bureau's long-range forecast from now until October. It is not a specific forecast in the usual sense, but an ESTIMATE of the average temperatures and precipitation for the period.

September temperatures are expected to average below normal over most areas west of the Continental Divide as well as along the extreme northern border of the country, and in the far Southeast. Above-normal temperatures are anticipated over the remainder of the nation and along the California coast.

Precipitation during September is expected to be above normal in the Western Mountain States, the Northern and Central Plains, the Great Lakes region, and also in the extreme Southeast. Subnormal rainfall is expected over a broad band extending from Texas northeastward through the Ohio Valley. In unspecified areas near-normal amounts are in prospect.

Attractive Table Settings Are Assembled With Thought

By KAY SHERWOOD
NEA Staff Writer

The new homemaker who's gaining experience as cook and hostess should take a tip from experts and plan her table settings as carefully as her menus for her first dinner parties.

Simple, easily prepared foods, presented with a flourish against an attractive background, will contribute more to her poise and self-confidence than the complicated recipes which tie her to the kitchen until dinner is served.

Attractive table settings, however, don't just happen. They must be assembled with thought.

That's one reason why it's smart, before buying a particular pattern in dinnerware or flatware, to visualize it with other things you have or hope to have.

Carole Stupell, a noted designer of table decor, suggests that you think of your table setting as a picture. The tablecloth serves as background and your accessories and serving pieces represent a still-life picture in color.

Talking of color, the designer encourages the young homemaker to use it with imagination and boldness. But she adds this advice: Make sure your colors are in the same key. Don't let them fight with each other.

"The same applies to your china and glassware. Keep your textures consistent and let harmony be your watchword."

If you favor contemporary design, you have a variety of exciting colors and shapes from which to select basic table pieces as well as accessories.

Bringing to modern tables a great deal of style at moderate prices is stainless steel, both imported and American-made. The combination of stainless steel and wood appears in many of the new serving pieces as well as in flatware and suggests a ready combination with contemporary patterned or bolder colored china.

Stainless steel serving dishes are versatile in use. It's well to remember that their shining surfaces will reflect the tablecloth beneath. Often they show up to better advantage on a textured cloth rather

County UF Solicitors Have Meeting

The luncheon meeting for county workers opening the United Fund Campaign on Tuesday, Sept. 3, at the Immanuel Evangelical and Reformed Church, was attended by about 65 persons. All except a few officers of United Fund, being county workers.

James T. Denny, director, served as moderator and the meeting opened with the singing of the Star Spangled Banner followed by invocation by the Rev. A. F. Klemme.

John C. Ryan, county chairman of the United Fund, made a talk in which he told workers of the importance of making the campaign a success. Everyone in the county, he said, will be contacted. Due to conditions beyond control, said Ryan, the county was not solicited by the United Fund during 1956 and 1957. This year, he said, a very successful drive is anticipated. The basis for giving has been determined one hour's pay per month for 12 months, he explained, and that was being asked for this year.

Since some of the agencies do not serve the county, Ryan told the group, checks may be payable to the agencies the person wants to go to. If a farmer is busy at his work or for any reason is away from home, he is asked to help the workers by having his check read, and leaving it with his wife. This will save the worker, who is donating his services for a worthy cause, by not having to make a return trip after the check.

Harry Naugel, chairman of agencies, explained how he determined the amount of money paid various agencies and told of the services received by the people of the community from the agencies. He pointed out that the people of Sedalia and Pettis County receive far more from the agencies through services than they donate.

James Denny introduced the following: County Judges Frank Monroe, E. L. Birdsong and Clarence Purchase; Harry Naugel, chairman of agencies and treasurer; Maurice Hogan, chapter chairman, Pettis County Chapter, American Red Cross; and Mrs. Leonard Peabody, secretary of United Fund.

Mrs. John Welch, general chairman of the United Fund campaign, was unable to be present because of illness.

Denny, who told of the importance of the success of the drive to the entire community, then expressed appreciation to the Red Cross Canteen volunteers for serving the meal and to Rev. Klemme for the use of the facilities of the church.

Tentative Plans For New PTA Year Made

The executive committee of the Mark Twain PTA met at the home of Mrs. John R. VanDyne Thursday afternoon, Aug. 29. At this informal meeting tentative plans for the year were made, and suggestions for the betterment of the schools and PTA were advanced and discussed.

Afternoon PTA meeting dates were scheduled for September, October and November in cooperation with the athletic department.

A proposed budget was outlined and will be voted on at the first PTA meeting, Sept. 20. Attendance at council meetings was stressed. It was announced that the district convention to be held Sept. 27 at Boonville, and the state convention in St. Louis Oct. 15-17 were discussed. Reservations for two delegates to the state convention are being made. Helpful literature, in regard to each chairman's task was distributed.

A possible series of radio programs under consideration by the PTA council was viewed favorably by the group as an excellent way to better acquaint the public with the schools.

Jack Delph, principal, also attended the meeting.

Emotions Simmer Down

Housing Development Quiet After Integration Violence

LEVITTOWN, Pa. (AP)—Emotions have simmered down. The restlessness, sometimes violent crowds are only a memory. From time to time local police make the rounds of routine patrol. State police, on emergency duty for about two weeks, have gone.

The men come and go to their jobs as usual. Their wives shop, chin with neighbors, wonder how they will get through the housework in the early September heat.

Such is Levittown—and specifically, its Dogwood Hollow section—three weeks after the first Negro family moved into the previously all-white housing development of about 15,000 homes and nearly 60,000 people.

Outwardly, Dogwood Hollow seems pretty much as it was before William and Daisy Myers came with their three children and settled down in a pink ranch style house Myers bought for a little more than $12,000.

Disarmament Talks Appear In Deadlock

LONDON (AP)—The five-power London disarmament talks apparently were as good as over today with the usual lack of agreement. The West and the Russians were even deadlocked over who would take the initiative in ending negotiations.

Another meeting of the U.N. disarmament subcommittee was scheduled today despite the latest Soviet assertion that there was "no room for further discussion" of Western proposals.

That Soviet view was put forward last night at a Russian Embassy news briefing shortly after Valerian Zorin, the Soviet disarmament delegate, again told the subcommittee the Western proposals were not acceptable.

A Soviet spokesman told reporters there was no basis for negotiation in the package plan presented last week by the United States, Britain, France and Canada, the subcommittee's four Western members.

"We are not ready to accept them," he said. "It seems to me there is no room for further discussion of these proposals."

With the 5½-month-old negotiations now tightly deadlocked, the next obvious step was to refer the whole matter back to the parent 12-nation Disarmament Commission in New York and ultimately to the U.N. General Assembly session opening there Sept. 17.

Neither side appeared willing to take the responsibility for bringing the London conference to a close.

The two main features of the West's package disarmament plan call for a two-year moratorium on nuclear weapon tests dependent on a cut-off in atomic production for military purposes, and air and ground inspection against the danger of surprise attack. This would be tied up with cuts in armed forces and conventional arms.

The Russians still demand an immediate and unconditional ban on atomic tests and the use of atomic weapons, the latter the West's only counter to the numerically superior Communist armies.

Zorin complained that the Western proposal for a two-year halt to nuclear weapon tests is "tied up in a maze of conditions which rob it of its essential value." But he did not reply when asked yesterday by U.S. delegate Harold Stassen to specify any conditions he believed unworkable.

Libel Trial Arguments Before Jury

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The torrent of scandal gushing from the criminal libel trial of Confidential magazine has finally run dry.

Final arguments to the jury will begin tomorrow, the last day of the trial's fifth week in Los Angeles County Superior Court. The case is in recess today.

Probably by the end of next week the jury of six men and six women will begin deliberations. It will be up to them to decide whether Confidential and Whisper magazines, Publisher's Distributing Corp., Fred and Marjorie Meade and their Hollywood Research, Inc., are guilty or innocent of conspiracy to commit criminal libel and to print lewd and obscene matter.

If the jury finds them guilty of a felony, the penalty could range up to three years imprisonment, a fine up to $5,000 or both. If the jury decides the offense is a misdemeanor, the term of imprisonment could be up to one year in jail and the fine up to $1,000.

The dominant issue of the trial—was the story about actress Maureen O'Hara making love in a Hollywood theater true?—persisted to the very end.

The defense's final witness was a paralyzed former employee of Grauman's Chinese Theater. Testimony of Mrs. Jan Harkins, a young mother, was taken at her bedside in her Los Angeles home. Mrs. Harkins testified that while working at the candy counter in Grauman's in the spring of 1954, she was told by a fellow employee, James Craig, that Miss O'Hara was "involved in a necking party" in the rear row of seats.

Mrs. Harkins said she did not see Miss O'Hara in the theater. She was the third former employee of the theater called by the defense in its effort to prove the story true.

Craig testified he saw Miss O'Hara and a Latin in a torrid clinch in November 1953. Later, Michael Casey, the theater's assistant manager, testified he saw Miss O'Hara and her companion embracing. He placed the time as February 1954.

Craig said he supplied the information for Confidential's story. Miss O'Hara took the witness stand Tuesday and denied she ever was in Grauman's with anyone other than members of her family. She said millionaire Mexican business man Enrique Parra had never accompanied her to the theater. The defense had attempted to identify Parra as her companion in the "necking party."

Eisenhowers On Vacation At Naval Base

NEWPORT, R.I. (AP) — Vacationing President Eisenhower, eager as a schoolboy, arranged to try his luck today at one of the nation's toughest golf courses.

The President, who arrived from Washington yesterday for an extended stay, booked a match at the exclusive Newport Country Club. He instructed aides to keep him posted regarding any developments on the troublesome school integration situation at Little Rock, Ark.

Eisenhower and his wife, still convalescing from surgery she underwent Aug. 6, are at a vacation White House at the U.S. Naval Base on coaster Harbor Island, situated in Narragansett Bay just west of historic Newport.

"We look forward to the time of our lives," the President told an applauding crowd in the city's Washington Square after riding through jammed streets in an open car.

A bit later, he put vacation plans aside for a time and conferred by telephone with Atty. Gen. Brownell, in Washington, on the halting of integration at Little Rock.

James C. Hagerty, White House press secretary, said later that Brownell was "under orders" to keep Eisenhower abreast of developments there. Still later Brownell announced in the capital that the FBI had been assigned to collect facts concerning any interference with desegregation at Little Rock's Central High School.

At Little Rock, Gov. Orval Faubus sent a telegram to Eisenhower last night saying "I am reliably informed that federal authorities in Little Rock have this day been discussing plans to take into custody by force the head of a sovereign state."

Hagerty said he had not been informed about Faubus' telegram.

The President and Mrs. Eisenhower rested at the temporary White House yesterday afternoon after arriving by plane from Washington at nearby Quonset Point, R.I., and traveling the rest of the way here by Navy cabin cruiser across Narragansett Bay.

Eisenhower arranged to play the Newport golf course this morning with Howard Cushing, the country club president; Norman Palmer, the club pro, and Hagerty.

The President scheduled the match to follow a round of work on government business at a small office set up for him at the naval base. He brought with him from Washington about 35 bills approved by Congress shortly before it adjourned last Friday.

At the civic reception — which Mrs. Eisenhower did not attend because her doctors advised against over-exertion — the President said he may stay at Newport "a great deal" longer "than some others think I should." There has been speculation that the vacation is likely to last until about mid-October — shortly before Queen Elizabeth's scheduled visit to Washington.

"For myself," Eisenhower said with a broad grin, "I assure you that no vacation has ever started more auspiciously. Never did I feel so good on the first two hours of getting away from Washington, and I assure you it is not just because I am getting away from Washington."

Make Soft Jelly Firmer
The question has been asked many times lately as to how to make soft jelly firmer?

It is not always possible to remake soft jellies so that the product will be satisfactory. However, soft jellies can sometimes be improved by recocking. It is best to recock only four to six cups of jelly at one time. The three following methods are recommended:

To remake with powdered pectin. Measure the jelly to be recocked. For each quart of jelly measure ¼ cup sugar, ¼ cup water, and 4 teaspoons powdered pectin. Mix the pectin and water and bring to boiling, stirring constantly to prevent scorching. Add the jelly and sugar. Stir thoroughly. Bring to a full rolling boil over high heat, stirring constantly. Boil mixture hard for ½ minute. Remove jelly from the heat, skim, pour into hot containers, and seal.

To remake with liquid pectin. Measure the jelly to be recocked. For each quart of jelly measure ¼ cup sugar, 2 tablespoons lemon juice, and 2 tablespoons liquid pectin. Bring jelly to boiling over high heat. Quickly add the sugar, lemon juice, and pectin and bring to a full rolling boil, stir constantly. Boil mixture hard for 1 minute. Remove jelly from the heat, skim, pour into hot containers, and seal.

To remake without added pectin. Heat the jelly to boiling and boil for a few minutes. Test for doneness. Remove jelly from the heat,

With Youth Hostel Group

Betty Hopkins Takes Bicycle Tour of European Countries

Miss Betty Hopkins, who left the first of June for a summer of real experiences and fun with the American Youth Hostel Association, has returned home brown and bright-eyed and came to Sedalia to visit her mother, Mrs. G. G. Hopkins, 608 West Third, before returning to Kansas City where she is a medical technician at General Hospital. She is supervisor of the laboratory.

Many are seeing Europe these days, but not like Betty. Such a trip takes youth and the vitality for roughing it, but it is the best and cheapest way if you have the qualifications. The hostel system was started by Germany in 1937 in order to give their youth an opportunity to see their own and other countries cheaply.

Betty sailed with a group of ten, five boys and five girls, plus a leader from Quebec on June 4, and arrived at Liverpool on June 14. They went from Liverpool to London by train and it was during the four days they were in London that they got their bicycles, for that is part of the plan, sight-seeing by bicycle and hiking. They bicycled to Canterbury and then to Dover where Betty got a piece of the White Cliffs of Dover that looks like a piece of chalk and writes just as well.

Although they did swim in the English Channel, they didn't go across that way, they went by boat. They landed in Belgium at Ostende and went by bicycle to Brugge, a 13th Century town where they stayed in hostels.

Hostels are like dormitories, said Betty, where food and lodging is furnished and, she added, the food is really good. From there they went to Brussels, where they are getting ready for the World's Fair in 1958. In Ghent, she said, they saw the VanEyk altar pieces, where artists can see everything in art in one panel.

They went by train to Cologne, taking with them their bicycles, and bicycled to Bonn, the new German capital. They took the Rhine steamer up to Bacharach where they stayed in a castle, with its drawbridge and towers from which they could see for miles and miles. There were many German young people at the castle, as well as other nationalities, and they would sing together in the evenings.

At Heidelberg they saw the Black Forest and Betty said she wasn't disappointed in it. Here, too, were the cuckoo clocks and wood carvings that were interesting. Betty liked Germany, where she said they found the people very friendly. The young people, she said, are crazy about rock 'n roll music. They still dance the polka and the waltz, however. Most of them, she said, want to come to this country either to visit or live.

The group spent two weeks in Germany, going from there to Switzerland. They went up Jungfrau, which means "young maid" and which is one of the highest mountains in the Alps, by railway and they walked down. At the end of two hours they found themselves only one-fourth of the way down.

It was in Bern, Switzerland, that the people in the town met them and took them to their homes for an evening of entertainment. Betty and some of her group spent the evening in the home of a professor who spoke English. They were served open faced sandwiches and beer. Once or twice a week the people of Bern entertained tourists in their homes, she said.

Betty found that the favorite foods of the Germans are sausage, sauerkraut and black bread. The breakfast consisted of bread, butter, jelly and coffee, usually, with sometimes another beverage instead of coffee.

One of the highlights of the trip was going through the Tobler factory in Bern where the best chocolate in the world is made, said Betty. Delicious candies filled with various kinds of nuts and candy bars of dozens of varieties are made and they were given samples of all of them.

Two of Betty's group lost their passports and that is a calamity but they were both able to get fixed up all right. Sometimes it takes several weeks.

The people in those countries think nothing of riding a hundred miles a day on bicycles; however, Betty's group averaged about 30 or 40 miles a day. One day they went 56 miles, which was their record.

The last stop of the group was at Geneva. They crossed the lake from Lausanne to Geneva and there were a lot of Austrian young people in native dress singing songs. They saw the League of Nations building which is now being used by the United Nations for the World Health Organization, Betty said. This is the non-policy-making part of the U.N. At Geneva the group of young people split up, some going to Norway, some to Sweden and other places.

Betty went with three of the group to travel through France and Italy. One of the boys bought a Volkswagen and so they went by car. They found things very cheap with rooms only $1, even with maid service, and in Rome 85 cents. But the traffic in Rome she said was terrible, with bicycles, motorcycles, little cars and all kinds of things. The Italian spaghetti, betty, said Betty, isn't nearly as good as ours.

In Rome they stayed in student houses connected with universities. It was in Rome they met an American man from Washington, D.C., who took them all out to dinner to a restaurant, which Betty said was very plush. It was sure nice, she commented, going to a place like that, because they had really been roughing it.

They visited Florence, where, she said, artists go crazy with all the wonderful art. Here is where you really run into the tourists, too.

In Venice, the city of canals, Betty enjoyed most the square, where all of the pigeons were, and where they have operas at night. They didn't ride in a gondola, she said, that was too expensive. They rode the water bus, which has regular stops just like any other kind of bus. When you go in a store, you don't just look around; the salesmanship is so great you just have to buy something.

It was here that one of their party left and a boy from Canada joined their group. The next stop was Vienna, a city of three million on the "Blue Danube," which Betty found wasn't blue at all but dirty. In Vienna they rode the ferris wheel, the biggest in the world, with cars as big as railroad cars, she said. In this city, too, they saw the Vienna Opera House which was destroyed during the war and rebuilt. The opera they attended was "Der Fledermaus" by Richard Strauss. They also saw Schonbrunn Castle with 1,200 rooms which belonged to Marie Theresa, mother of Marie Antoinette, and watched the people drive up, the ladies dressed in all of their finery.

Munich, she said, had been destroyed and rebuilt, now looking like an American city.

They made arrangements to go to southern France and for five days Betty lived in a French home where the people spoke nothing but French and the cooking was good. Betty doesn't speak French at all but the people were nice and she learned to say the most important thing in French, which was to pass the food. The town she stayed in was Grenoble in the French Alps. From there they went by bike to Paris and riding a bike in Paris is pretty hectic, she said. In Paris she bought perfume at bargain prices and came home with several bottles of the finest perfume and cologne.

The American express, she said, is just like home. There you get your mail and meet people you have met in other places. In fact, she ran on to the group of Girl Scouts she had met a couple of times before, who were at the international Girl Scout house, known as Our Charlet, Adeboden, Switzerland.

Betty sailed from LeHarve, France, on Aug. 16 and landed at South Hampton, England, going then to Cobh Ireland and arriving back in New York on Aug. 28, where she spent two days, and then home.

In addition to a few things she bought in various places, Betty brought back with her bicycle and the pair of leather lederhosen. These are short leather pants that the men wear that last five years, which she wore bicycling on her trip.

Ceylon has a population of 8,334,000. This is an island 31 miles off the southern tip of India.

Typical Teen-Age Joe Shows Mature Ideas for His Future

By Eugene Gilbert

In the busy world between boyhood and manhood, Joe Teen-ager as we see him, is a powerful bit of America. His hopes and his values are solid and sure. The role he sees for himself is a mature one.

Surveys during our first year of writing about "What Young People Think" give us a portrait of the average Mr. Teen which is heartening to a generation of otherwise shocked parents.

Our mythical Joe is not afraid of the future and what it holds in the miracles of nuclear energy. He sees in it, instead, a more powerful tool for his strong young hands.

If he is guilty of anything, it is the crime of teenagers of every generation. Impatience to get started with the kind of life he would carve for himself, and curiosity as to the extent of his own power.

He looks, as one Mr. Teen did, at the caution of his elders with impatience. "The sky isn't going to fall down tomorrow but still some people worry about it."

Three out of four of our Joe's already have chosen their future careers with the bulk of them seeking vocations different from their fathers'. Only 16 per cent choose to follow their Dads.

The largest draw seems to be the professions — such as medicine, law, teaching — with 38 per cent considering this as a career goal. Only nine per cent aim for engineering.

Out of every ten Teens, eight think that compulsory military training is necessary for the security of the nation.

Mr. Teen likes his girls natural and not caked with makeup, glamor or style. He may whistle at the Miss Glamor, but it's Miss Pony-tail he takes to the Junior Prom.

Favors Personable Gals
In picking his girl friend, he searches first for personality. Good looks come next, followed by companionship, good reputation, brains, education and family, in that order.

Almost seven out of ten Mr. Teens believe that their parents play square with their brothers and sisters, and only 23 per cent of the boys feel tied to mother's apron strings.

The average Joe in the 15 to 17-year-old group has had some alcoholic beverage. Eighty-three per cent said they had taken a drink; 53 per cent said they had had it at home. Parties, bars and night clubs accounted for the rest, but in looking at these figures, it is wise to remember that state laws vary on the regulation of drinking.

Some 76 per cent of the youths said it wasn't proper to drink without a parent's knowledge. Smoking is widespread from age 13 and increases as Mr. Teen gets older. Among 13-15 year olds, 49 per cent said they smoked. Among 16-year-olds and older, 74 per cent.

Despite this, Joe seems convinced there is a link between cigarette smoking and lung cancer.

Of all the sports, he likes baseball first, football second, basketball third. Swimming rates a poor fourth.

Feels Religious
He considers himself religious. But he admits if it came down to a choice of going on a date or going to church, the date would win out 82 per cent of the time.

Sex education and experimentation seems to be a great problem for him. Three quarters of the youths asked said they learned something about sex from their contemporaries. Experience teaches 36 per cent; books and magazines another 20 per cent. Three out of four complain that their parents don't discuss sex with them.

Most Mr. Teens think their folks or their school should begin sex education at the junior high school or even the elementary school level. Joe knows he is a poor insurance risk as an automobile driver. Twenty-one per cent of the youths questioned admitted they could be dared to take chances in a car.

Criticizes Dad
At the same time he doesn't seem afraid of driving with a reckless friend at the wheel. He insists nevertheless that he be allowed to have the family car once a week. Seven out of ten youths plan to attend college and about half want a liberal arts education. A small college is the choice of 61 per cent and 52 per cent want a coeducational school.

Mr. Teen is no stranger to family quarrels, yet he is reasonably satisfied with his home life. However, about 36 per cent of these youths think their fathers live in the past. In fact only 11 per cent would follow their parents' pattern of living. Also, they chide their fathers for poor grooming, bad manners and occasionally for too much drinking.

Our Joe hates report cards and worries about his grades. He thinks his manners are adequate, he reads newspapers and books but not much of the Bible.

He dislikes curfews, believes the father should earn the living for the family and the mother should keep the home.

Optimistic Guy
By his standards of honesty, he finds a rash of bad examples in adults' income tax returns and political corruption. On the other hand, he thinks his own parents deal in only a few dishonesties, largely of the white lie variety.

He does chores around the house such as making his own bed, mowing the lawn, helping with the dishes. And he gripes about them heartily.

By allowance and outside jobs, Joe may earn something over $4 a week when he's 13 to more than $16 a week at 19.

He uses his money for lunches at school, sports, dates, movies, records, clothing, savings and for school supplies.

In spite of varied means of entertainment, and long telephone conversations, he still feels bored from time to time.

All in all, Joe Teenager faces his future responsibilities as a young adult with optimism. His ideas will undoubtedly change in a great many fields and in his 20s, like all young men, he will be surprised to see how much his father has learned in such a very short time.

HOUSE of FABRICS

Designer Has An Upsetting Commentary

By JAMES BACON
HOLLYWOOD — Designer Don Loper made an admission today that could well upset the economy of the fashion world, but it's the kind of news husbands like to hear.

"I'm the only designer in the business who shows a dress for $39.95 along with one that sells for $3.95," he declared at the showing of his new fall collection.

"And I must honestly admit that the $39.95 dress is just as good a buy as the expensive one. The same thought, same workmanship, often the same materials, go into the cheaper one."

There is only one difference, according to Loper, and that is he makes a thousand of the $39.95 models but only one of the expensive design.

Loper, designer for many of the movies' biggest names, makes another point for husbands.

"Any dress, whether it costs $39.95 or $5,000, should last a woman five years at the minimum."

Unlike Paris designers, Loper never changes the hemlines of his creations.

"The shape of women's legs never changes style. . . . The most flattering part of the leg is midcalf, and that's where my dresses stay."

The American designer declared open warfare with the new French chemise look, a throwback to the styles of the roaring Twenties.

"The whole French line looks like a burlesque of the Twenties—and how can you burlesque an era that was a burlesque in itself? One Dior evening creation looks like something Bea Lillie might wear for a sketch in the second act of a jazz age revue."

Loper's new collection shows no tampering with the natural silhouette.

"I, unlike Dior and the rest of Paris, abide by the biological fact that a woman's bosoms are in front and her waistline in the middle," he said.

"My clothes curve where my customers curve."

Central State Teachers Meet October 10-11

The 57th annual meeting of the Central Missouri Teachers Association will be held at Warrensburg Thursday and Friday, Oct. 10-11. About 2,000 teachers are expected.

Meeting at Central Missouri State College, the teachers will hear four general session addresses, and will attend a series of six divisional meetings, as well as nineteen departmental sessions. The CMSC alumni will also attend a luncheon meeting on Thursday noon.

Miss Adah Pockenpugh of Clinton, district association president, will preside at general sessions.

Speakers at general sessions and their subjects, are: Charles P. Taft, mayor of Cincinnati, O., "What Use is Our Education"; Dr. Sylvia A. Sorkin, of St. Louis, "Take a Good Look at Yourself"; and Dr. Marcus Bach, of Iowa University, "Education and the American Spirit." Dr. Warren C. Lovinger, president of CMSC, will give the opening welcoming address.

Divisional meeting speakers are: George Cleland, Topeka, of the Kansas State Department of Education; Dr. Charles E. Cooper, Jefferson City, State Department of Education; Dr. Philip J. Hickey, St. Louis; Dr. Hanna H. Hicks, University of Indiana, at Bloomington; and Dr. Arthur F. Corey, California Teachers Association, of San Francisco.

SALT HARVEST — Bearing their burdens on their backs, Guajira Indian women trek across the sprawling salt beds during the annual salt harvest on the Guajira Peninsula, Manure, Colombia. More than 2,000 Indians and their families take part in the harvest each year. The salt, which has been evaporating for 10 months under the hot tropical sun, is placed in 1,800-pound mounds by each individual family and carried to shore by the women in 100-pound bags. For each 100 bags they are paid about $10. These salt beds, in use since the 16th century, will yield some 42,000 tons of salt this year.

Local Area Campuses Will Offer Extension Courses From CMSC

Thirty-one college credit extension courses, to be offered in seven counties, are being planned by Central Missouri State College, Dr. Harold L. Young, CMSC public service director, announced today.

Details concerning the courses and opening dates may be obtained from the extension study centers, or from Dr. Young.

Study centers are: For Jackson county: Kansas City Conservatory of Music; and William Chrisman High School in Independence.

For Lafayette county: Lexington High School; Cass County: Harrisonville High School; Bates County: Butler High School; Benton County: Warsaw High School; Morgan County: Versailles High School; and for Phelps County: Rolla High School.

The college will also offer during the school year two evening and Saturday campus classes in Warrensburg for which the autumn enrollment date is Monday evening, Sept. 9, beginning at 6 o'clock.

Three of Famous Dead Sea Scrolls Are Now on Display

JERUSALEM (AP) — What the special "Shine of the Book" has been built on another site of the campus, the parchments are in glass vitrines. The subterranean room itself is protected by specially thick walls, an iron door, a permanent armed guard and insurance of one million dollars.

Though only part of the Hebrew scrolls could be deciphered—some are easily readable but for others the help of infra-red rays is needed—their contents are regarded by almost all scholars as of momentous importance. The number of scientists now working on their theological, historic or linguistic interpretation here in Jerusalem and at many other universities in the world may well exceed a hundred.

Prof. Benjamin Mazar, president of Hebrew University, hailed the scrolls as "the greatest discovery of our age offering miraculous evidence of a great spiritual movement and enabling us to hear the echo of Jewish life in Israel 2,000 years ago."

A recent university publication describes them as another material testimony of "Jews who lived and worked in the Land of Israel two millennia ago, loved and studied the Scriptures, cherished the dream of a perfect society based on a cooperative mode of living, used the Hebrew language to express the whole span of human experience, from lyrical sorrow to political and military concepts."

The scrolls were written in ink—some obviously in very bad ink. Damp and vermin also have had an adverse effect on them, so that many pages cannot be restored at all which, it is feared, may also go for many of the scrolls and fragments found during the last few years in 10 other caves in the Qumran area—finds which are now in the Rockefeller Museum in the Jordan administered section of Jerusalem and therefore not available to Israel restorers or scholars.

Amsterdam, in The Netherlands, is known as the "Venice of the North," and is built on a group of 90 islands, connected by 300 bridges.

Soviet warships in the Black Sea can pass through the Turkish Straits under certain conditions provided by the Montreux Convention of 1936. Soviet warships must pass through one at a time and Soviet submarines must travel only in daytime and on the surface.

in which they were wrapped before being put away, as well as the scholarly examination of the contents of the texts themselves, seem to show that they were written not later than during second half of the first century of the Christian era. In fact the Qumran monastery was destroyed in the great anti-Roman revolt of 70 A.D. and at that time the scrolls had already been put into their jars and the jars into the caves.

Ralph Dow Is Speaker At Lions Club

Coach Ralph "Stub" Dow of Smith-Cotton High School spoke to the Sedalia Lions Club on the 1957 Tiger football team at Smith-Cotton and made a few remarks about the future of the University of Missouri Tigers. He talked at the regular noon-day meeting of the club on Wednesday.

Dow stressed on training of football players and the duties of the coach and his assistants. "These young fellows must have instilled in them the desire to win. Each must be taught that regardless of size, the other fellow isn't too big for him to handle," Dow said.

"The Tigers at this point of the training season are far better than they were a year ago at this time. We'll win some and lose some this season, but on the whole the people will see good football as far as the local team is concerned. They will witness a real bunch of boys who at present are showing that desire," Dow remarked.

He then discussed competition for the team.

"If we were playing in the old Big Seven Conference, we wouldn't lose a game," he said. "We seldom lost when we were in the Big Seven and when I was playing with the old Sedalia team. But in the present conference we have some pretty stiff competition, and our non-conference games are definitely tough ones," he said.

Dow then paid tribute to Coach Frank Broyles of MU and said, "Missouri will have a good team, a fine team this year, but it will take a couple of years to build it up to the expectations of Missouri followers. Broyles is a good coach and he has a fine coaching staff. He delegates his work and puts the responsibility of decisions to be made upon his staff for their particular jobs."

"There will be some good football in Columbia this year," Dow remarked.

Dow was introduced by James Van Wagner, program chairman.

M. C. "Colie" Ervin and George Young were introduced as new members of the Sedalia club.

A guest at the meeting was of E. U. Whitney.

The Lions were informed of two important meetings which are scheduled, the ladies' night meeting Oct. 23 and the 20th anniversary meeting to be held in February, 1958.

International Counselor Dr. Harry E. Goddard, Kennett, Mo., will visit the Sedalia Club Oct. 23.

Dr. Sauls of the Missouri State Conservation Commission will be the principal speaker at this meeting.

International Counselor E. B. Smith learned from Roy Keaton, secretary-general of Lions International, that First Vice-President Dudley Sims of West Virginia will be in Sedalia to make an official visit and talk at the 20th anniversary meeting.

The date for this meeting will be set as soon as confirmation on a specified date is made by International.

Opera Manager Signs New 5-Year Contract

NEW YORK (AP)—Rudolf Bing signed a new five-year contract as general manager of the Metropolitan Opera Assn. yesterday with an option for two additional years.

Anthony A. Bliss, association president, said Bing's old contract—due to expire June 1, 1959—was cancelled by mutual agreement.

Bing currently is in Cologne, Germany, examining that city's new opera house. His salary is reported as $35,000 a year.

Palbearers will be Ervin Eick-off, John Vannoy, Louis Rosebrock, Otto Rosebrock, Ryland Logan and Ralph Milburn.

Burial will be in the Memorial Park Cemetery.

The body is at the Ewing Funeral Home.

Visitor Has Startling Query Upon Arrival

"Say, where am I?" was the first question asked by a young man who came down out of the sky over Sedalia Wednesday night in order to get some matches to read by.

The startling inquiry was put to several members of the Sedalia Jaycees who were working on the permanent state Jaycee headquarters being erected at the city airport on East Highway 50.

Hammering away at about 9 p. m. by the use of spotlights, they had noticed a private plane circling about overhead but failed to notice it landing at the airport. Their first knowledge of it was when the young pilot stepped into the glare of the floodlamps and asked his location.

Not giving his name, he said he was from Arkansas and was headed for Kansas City but had lost his way. He said that ordinarily he could have picked up radio signals from Kansas City but that the heavy clouds had forced him to fly too low to get reception from there. He circled Sedalia, spotted the landing strip lights and put down.

He and the Jaycees huddled over the air map he carried and, after being oriented by them, he decided to head for Blue Springs, where he would be close enough to Kansas City to get radio bearings.

The pilot then asked for some matches so he could read his map once he got aloft again, since he had no flashlight. He expressed his thanks, walked back to the landing strip and took off in his plane, headed in the general direction of Blue Springs.

St. Louis Schools To Use Ancient Aid

ST. LOUIS (AP)—The abacus, a counting device used for centuries in the Orient, will be introduced in St. Louis public schools this year as a teaching aid.

The device, with sliding counters along rods or in grooves, will be used in all first and second grade classrooms to acquaint pupils with addition, subtraction, multiplication and division.

It was used experimentally in five schools last year. Teachers were enthusiastic. The school board will be asked to authorize the purchase of 550 abacuses, a school official announced.

RUSSIAN JET AIRLINER IN LONDON—Soviet United Nations officials debark from a TU-104 jet airliner on arrival at London airport for a brief refueling stopover. The petliner, the first Russian plane to visit the U. S. in 20 years continued to McGuire Air Force Base, N. J.

Segregation Case Before Judge Again

DALLAS (AP)—Federal Judge William H. Atwell ordered the long-smouldering Dallas segregation case brought before him a third time today.

Judge Atwell twice has ruled the Dallas independent school district should be allowed more time to study the problems of desegregation. Both rulings were reversed by the Fifth Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans.

The case stems from an attempt by 21 Negro children to enroll in white schools two years ago today.

Last July the Circuit Court of Appeals, for a second time, ordered Dallas schools integrated "with all deliberate speed." No definite time limit was set.

Judge Atwell declined to say what the proceedings today would include. "The matter will be taken up," was all the 87-year-old jurist would say about the case.

One new issue is a newly enacted Texas law which prohibits further integration without a favorable local option election.

The law prompted the Dallas school board to appeal for a rehearing of the July decision. The Circuit Court of Appeals turned down the request last week. The court, in effect, ruled the new Texas law was unconstitutional.

Miss Missouri Tops in Beauty Contest Talent

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J. (AP)—Preliminary talent competitions continue today and tomorrow in the Miss America pageant.

The 51 girls representing 43 states, Hawaii, Puerto Rico, Canada, Chicago, New York City and Washington, D. C. were split into three groups of 17 girls yesterday so the 10 judges can see every entrant in all forms of competition.

Two blondes, Miss Arizona and Miss Missouri, won the bathing suit and talent championships last night in the first of three preliminary competitions.

Lynn Freyre, 20-year-old junior at the University of Arizona, captivated the judges in her beige and white wool bathing suit. Miss Freyre, 36-23-35 and 5 feet 5½, hails from Tucson.

Sara Ann Cooper, 18, of Buckner, Mo., danced her way to the talent championship with a lively interpretation of the Charleston.

Miss Cooper, daughter of Walker Cooper, catcher-coach for the St. Louis Cardinals, wore the traditional garb of the roaring Twenties for her three-minute dance before a convention hall audience of 6,612.

The hazel eyed blonde said her costume was made with the help of her home economics teacher at Fort Osage High School last year.

Boy Dies From Gun Shot Fired by Baby Sister Accidentally

KANSAS CITY (AP)—A 4-year-old boy was fatally wounded today when a small automatic pistol accidentally discharged while his little sister played with it. The gun had been left on a table.

Dead upon arrival at a hospital was Martin Fitchett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Fitchett. The family has been living temporarily with her brother, Joe Alvarez.

The children were playing in an adjoining room. When Alvarez and Mrs. Fitchett heard the shot they rushed in to find Martin's 14-month-old sister, Lola, holding the gun.

Martin had fallen to the floor with a bullet in his throat.

Alvarez said he kept the gun around to chase prowlers following a scare last week, explaining that usually he puts the gun away in the mornings.

"This morning I just forgot," he added.

Police Reports

Frank Fisher, 634 East 15th reported to the police that on Aug. 23, someone cut a tire on his car.

Richard Ward, 610 Madison, reported to the police the loss of his truck license 227-027 sometime Tuesday around Ottaville.

Mrs. Robert Newman, 611 Wil-son reported to the police the theft of two girls' bicycles from her yard Wednesday night. They were found at 2 a. m. Thursday in front of the Sedalia Ice and Cold Storage Co. on West Main.

Police were called at 11 p. m. Wednesday to 16th and Barrett where it was reported drag racing was in progress. The racers were gone before the police arrived.

William "Billy" Jones, 10, son of Mr. and Mrs. A. L. Jones, 325 North Summit, was attacked by a large dog that bit the boy on the right hip early Thursday morning. Poundmaster C. D. Weathers picked the dog up and has impounded him for observation. Weathers reported the dog belonged to Virgil Gerald, 103 West Saline.

Thieves broke into the Hudson Oil Co., 641 East Broadway, sometime early Thursday morning. The thieves pried open the door to the women's rest room, and unable to get into the main building through there, forced open a window into the men's rest room, then entered the office.

Attempts were made to pry the safe from the floor. Unable to move it, the burglars jimmied the lock but failed to get in. The office was ransacked, but nothing appeared to be missing.

Accidents

Mrs. Lela Carver, 43, Florence, was injured in a two-car accident at Broadway and Grand about 5 p. m. Wednesday.

Mrs. Carver was taken to the Bothwell Hospital in the Ewing ambulance where Dr. Pete Siegel rendered medical treatment and admitted her to the hospital.

Mrs. Carver said her back, hips and shoulder hurt. She also suffered a head injury. Dr. Siegel reported X-rays would be taken Thursday to determine if any injury resulted to the pelvis.

She was riding in a 1953 Plymouth sedan driven south on Grand by her son Lee Olin Carver, 19, of Florence. The other car was a 1955 Oldsmobile tudor sedan driven east on Broadway by Luther A. Cochran, 59, of 1023 East 10th.

The front end of the Oldsmobile was badly damaged and the right side of the Plymouth smashed in.

Russia Bids For Airline Agreement

MCGUIRE AIR FORCE BASE, N. J. (AP)—Russia is bidding for a commercial airline agreement with the United States and the American airmen expressed unstinted admiration today for the Soviet jet transport that has made the trip from Moscow.

The TU104, silvery, big-bodied and powerful, set down at McGuire Air Force Base last night, the first Russian passenger airliner ever to land in the United States.

Promptly, highly placed Soviet official read a prepared statement from the steps of the ramp:

"Let this flight be the beginning of regular flights between the Soviet Union and the United States," he said. "Hail to the friendship of the Soviet and American peoples."

By special agreement, the TU104 brought 40 people—mainly members of the Russian delegation to the United Nations—across the 5,570-mile route from Moscow to the Air Force base in New Jersey.

The twin-jet liner, delayed by bad weather and refueling stops, took a total elapsed time of 21 hours, 54 minutes. Crewmen fixed the actual flying time at just over 13½ hours.

The Russians say they have other jet liners, bigger than the TU104, that will fly nonstop from Moscow to New York.

American and British airmen picked up to guide the TU104 through British and American airspace, had high praise for its performance.

"It's an excellent ship," said Capt. Boris N. Dubson, 37, of San Francisco, senior navigator. "It's smooth in flight and has very good performance at both high and low speeds."

Two other American airmen, Capt. Harold Renegar, 33, of Keller, Tex., pilot, and M. Sgt. Gaylor Robinson, 33, of Marietta, Ga., radio operator, also were aboard.

Squadron Leader Lawrence Dale, of Britain's Royal Air Force, said "it's an extremely good airplane. We all liked it a lot."

Dale added, however, that the new version of the Comet, British jet passenger airliner, "is much more lively."

The veteran aircraft designer, Maj. Alexander Seversky, on hand to see the TU104, said "the Russians are ahead of us with this particular jet engine. We are operating with a 10,000-pound thrust whereas they say this has 17,500 pounds thrust."

Seversky said the newest American models will carry the same or more power.

Nearly 500 people, newsmen, photographers, air force personnel and Russian officials, braved two sharp flurries of rain to see the big Soviet transport come in.

The TU104 made a smooth landing at 10:43 p. m. American pilots estimate its landing speed at 128 miles an hour.

Several Thousand Pledge Not To Be a Litterbug at State Fair

FOR CLEANER HIGHWAYS—The litterbug booth at the Missouri State Fair, located in the Agriculture Building, created a great deal of interest during the week with several organizations in the county cooperating with the "Keep America Beautiful, Inc." by handing out literature and asking people to pledge not to be litterbugs by signing the register. Several thousand visitors registered at the booth. Members of the following organizations promoting the project took turns staying at the booth throughout Fair Week: Houstonia Civic Club, the Houstonia Federated Club, the Sweet Springs Federated Club, the LaMonte Federated Club, the Sedalia Garden Clubs, the Pettis County Extension Clubs, the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club and the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce. The women worked hard getting the booth ready and each organization contributed toward the cost of the literature.

Can you think of anything worse than being punished for being a litterbug—that is, throwing trash out on the highway—than to have to pick up all the trash for a mile along that highway? That is what one young man had to do when he was caught carelessly tossing rubbish out of his car window. He wouldn't sign the register at the "Litterbug Booth" at the Missouri State Fair the past week, but he isn't a litterbug anymore.

"I'll never toss anything out the window of my car again," he said. Well, there is something worse than picking up trash for a mile, and that is picking up trash along the highway for six miles and that happened to a litterbug, too.

Several thousand people signed the register at the booth at the Fair during the week pledging not to be a litterbug, which really means they will help to keep America beautiful just by not being thoughtless and careless.

Several Pettis County organizations have joined in the program and took turns during the week staying at the booth. They are the Houstonia Civic Club, the Houstonia Federated Club, the Sweet Springs Federated Club, the LaMonte Federated Club, the Sedalia Garden Clubs, the Pettis County Extension Clubs, the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club and the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce.

The booth, which was very clever, was located in the Agriculture Building. There were large posters about four or five feet high which were painted by an artist, Mrs. Edna Mae Hill, Sweet Springs, who donated her work. One was of a small girl with a blonde pony tail putting trash in a trash can while a little bird on the nearby limb of a tree watched. The caption was "Annie Doesn't Litter Anymore."

which was from the little book by that name. Another was the red-faced auto with hands out in all directions, scattering litter. This sign said: "Don't Be A Litterbug." There was a big peg board, with a sign: "Keep Missouri Beautiful. Let's begin with you. Get the litter bag habit." On the board were all kinds of suggestions for litterbugs to carry in the car, from a plain old big paper sack like those used at the grocery stores to a plastic bag. The peg boards were loaned by Penney's.

At the back was a large shadow box frame given by Bowman's showing a picture of beautiful America and in front a great big green, long nosed litterbug, ready to ruin the scene. The litterbug was made by Mrs. J. W. Boger. Signs were donated by Pat Clark. A framed picture of Governor James T. Blair, Jr., on the map of Missouri and the Governor's proclamation stating that he is not a litterbug, hung on the wall of the booth. A warning sign against disposal of rubbish was loaned by the Highway Department.

Perhaps one of the most effective things at the booth was the trash can. A big, dark green can, on which was the sign, "Keep Our Roadways Clear, Carry a Trash Bag." People saw the can and tossed in rubbish they were carrying.

"Well, at last!" commented a man as he dropped a large paper cup in the can. "I've been carrying this around about two hours looking for a trash can."

Children, who had been taught in school not to be a litterbug, would smile as they came to the booth and the women could tell they knew all about it. This training for children will someday pay big dividends because, from force of habit, they will put those candy wrappers, paper napkins, chewing gum wrappers, paper cups, and all into the little bags in the car without even thinking and if they are walking they will probably hold on to the litter they have until they get home—of if it is small enough, stick it in their pockets or purses until they can throw it away.

It gets to be such a habit that it actually bothers people when they see a litterbug throw something down. Like the little boy whose mother broke off the end of her fingernail while she was driving and just tossed it out the window. The youngster was disgusted: "You shouldn't have done that," he told his mother. "You'll litter up the highway."

The women of the various organizations cooperating with "Keep America Beautiful, Inc." worked in shifts at the Fair. Sweet Springs Federated Club worked the first Saturday; the Houstonia Civic Club was there Sunday; the Pettis County Extension Clubs on Monday and Tuesday; the Sedalia Garden Clubs Wednesday and Friday; the Houstonia Federated Club Thursday morning; the Sedalia Business and Professional Women's Club Thursday afternoon and Sunday morning; the LaMonte Federated Club Saturday afternoon and the Chamber of Commerce Sunday afternoon.

The trash cans at the booth were provided by the civic activities division of the Chamber of Commerce. Doty donated the necessary hauling for the booth.

Keep Missouri beautiful along with the rest of America. Some people don't know there is a law against being a litterbug in this state.

Heber Hunt Addresses Local Teachers

The Sedalia Community Teachers Association held its first meeting of the school year Monday morning, Sept. 2, in the Little Theatre.

Dr. Heber U. Hunt, superintendent of Sedalia public schools, addressed the group of teachers with impressive remarks and inspired them to accept the responsibilities of the coming year. He presented the new teachers and explained the rules and regulations of the Board of Education.

After a welcome and greetings by the president, Mrs. Mable Howe, a delightful musical program was presented by a trio composed of Mrs. Eunice Jolly, Mrs. Mary Faulkner and Mrs. Margaret Peabody, accompanied by Mrs. Betty Carter. They sang: "Holiday for Strings," "Summertime" and "Liza."

Mrs. Howe reported her experience at the Bunker Hill Leadership Conference, a workshop set up through the cooperation of the National Education Association and the Missouri State Teachers Association.

Mrs. Marian Knight, Miss Nellie White, Miss Catherine Garman, Mrs. Thelma Cook, P. A. Sillers and Mrs. Howe gave reports of the NEA convention in Philadelphia and of the unique experiences surrounding a school bus load of teachers from Sedalia.

A social period followed the meeting at which time refreshments were served.

Thousands of Victories

Equestrian Utz Brothers Put Extra Spark in Horse Shows

KANSAS CITY (AP)—To thousands of admirers of horseflesh and horsemanship in the Midwest, summer and autumn would not be complete without seeing Missouri's equestrian Utz brothers in action. The name, by the way, is pronounced OOTS.

The Utz brothers—Jay, Sug (as in Sugar) and Don—tarin and show American saddlebred horses, those fine, high-spirited three and five-gaited animals that compete for the richest prizes at horse shows.

During the last 20 years, in competition with each other and rival trainers at hundreds of such shows, the poker-faced, hard riding Utzes have carried off hundreds of trophies and thousands of blue ribbons.

The appearance of one or two Utzes at a horse show often assures its success. A three-Utz show, such as the recent Missouri State Fair at Sedalia or the American Royal here, is bound to be one of the best.

Because of their fine horses, and their individual good looks and intense manner, the Utzes often become crowd favorites and receive heavy applause.

Training horses comes naturally to the Utz brothers. When they were growing up on a farm near Maysville, their father, Emil Utz, raised saddle horses, and they began working the animals when they were kids. It was accepted between them that when they grew up Jay, Sug and Don would be professional trainers.

Sug, whose name comes from a childhood contraction of "Sugar," and who dislikes his real name, Wilbur, owns and operates Blue Ridge Stables, near Kansas City. His current star, in a stable of nationally-known animals is Mimi Genus, world's champion "over 15-2" walk-trot mare, owned by Earl B. Noel and Myman Bennett of Moberly.

Jay manages the show string of Sunnyslope Farm at Scott City, Kan., owned by R. B. Christie. Sunnyslope maintains a herd of 250 saddle-bred horses and is the largest breeding and training stables west of the Mississippi. Jay's fame comes primarily from the fact that he has kept the nation's top harness horse, the Lemon Drop Kid, at the peak of perfection for four years.

Don, the youngest of the family, runs a training stable similar to Sug's at Lexington, although his current stable star is Hydramatic, a fast trotting roadster owned by M. V. Morris of Lexington. Training horses is hard and painstaking work. The trainer must work each horse every day, even on days when they are appearing at evening horse shows. A horse's education starts at about 18 months and it can be shown starting at 7 years.

The first three gait—walk, trot and canter—are the normal gaits for a horse. The other two, slow gait and rack—are man-devised and must be taught.

"There is not one horse in the world that is like any other," Don explained. "Each must be handled differently."

During the summer and fall, when horse shows are most numerous, the only time the Utzes get together is at the events where they are competing. Their parents now live at Lexington. A fourth brother, Emil Utz Jr., has broken up the family tradition and raises cattle near Maysville.

The brothers agree, perhaps to avoid an argument, that they have shared equally well in the re-wards of the show ring. Sometimes one wins and the next time another, they say.

Schoendienst Master Stroke

There Were 5 Basic Reasons Why Braves Lost Last Year

NEW YORK —There were five basic reasons why the Milwaukee Braves lost the pennant last year.

1. A weakness at second base and leftfield.
2. Lack of knowledge of the fundamentals—bad bunting, poor base running, too frequent throwing to the wrong base.
3. Lack of balance—deficient in left-handed batting strength and right and left-handed relief pitching.
4. A thin bench—inadequate reserve strength.
5. A September slump that affected all the hitters and all the pitchers with the exception of Warren Spahn.

As the Braves head into the final month of the season—to an almost certain pennant—Manager Fred Haney has the satisfaction of knowing that all but the fifth reason for Milwaukee's failure to win last year have been eliminated. And because of those four corrections, there almost certainly will not be a duplication of last September's swan dive.

The master stroke, of course, was the acquisition of Red Schoendienst from the New York Giants on June 15. With nearly 15 seasons behind him, the 34-year-old second baseman has been just what the doctor ordered. The Braves picked up steam and acted like a completely different ball club almost from the first day he joined them.

One of the reasons the Braves waited so long before completing the deal for Schoendienst was their reluctance to part with Bob Thomson. They believed they had no replacement for him in left field. They found out differently.

With Thomson gone Wes Covington soon made Milwaukee fans forget Thomson. The young left-handed slugger began to hit almost immediately after his recall from Wichita and he's still going strong.

The Braves still are not adept in bunting and they're last in base stealing. But they've grasped a certain knowledge of baseball fundamentals. They certainly had enough instruction along those lines. Day after day during spring training, Haney and his coaches drilled them in leading off base, holding runners on base, working cutoffs, etc.

Perhaps Haney's greatest satisfaction came from a game in the Polo Grounds Aug. 27 when his players engineered an unusual double play, eliminating two Giants in rundowns on a ground ball hit to Eddie Mathews. It was just the kind of play the Braves had practiced for hours at their spring training camp.

"It was worth all the hours and all the work we put in," said Haney. "That's the kind of plays we didn't make last year. It was the difference between winning and losing."

A year ago managers right-handed the Braves to death. Rarely did a lefthander start against them. Once they got past Mathews—and maybe Bill Bruton—the pitchers had no more worries regarding lefthanded opposition.

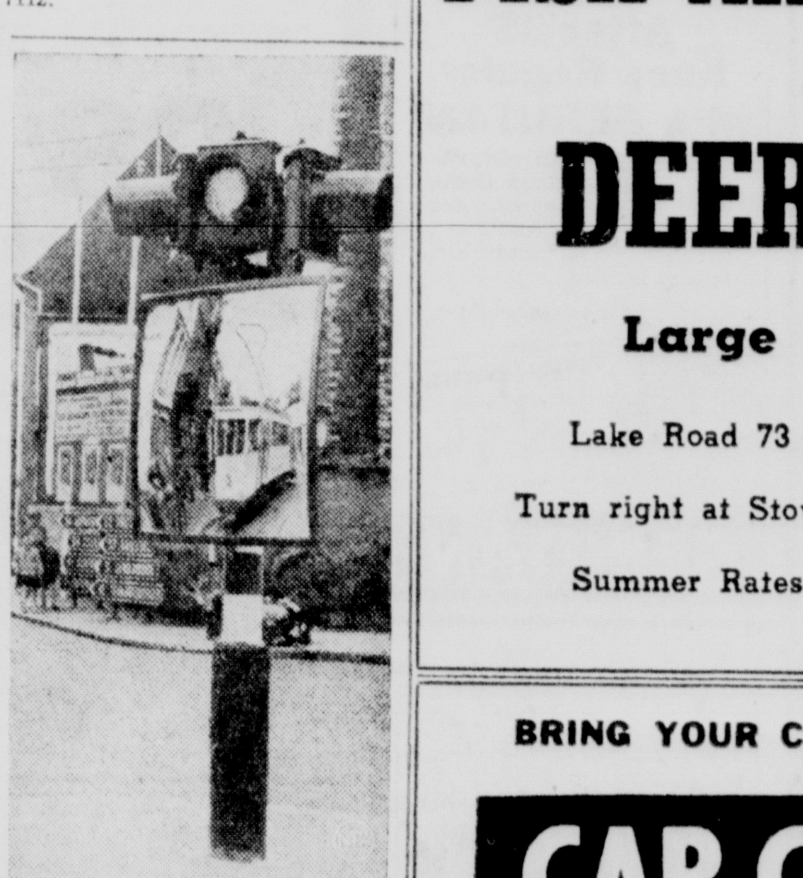

This year, when the opposition starts a righthander, Haney counters with a lefthanded array consisting of Mathews, Covington, Frank Torre, Carl Sawatski, Schoendienst, plus the sensational newcomer from Wichita, Bob Hazle. Against a lefthander, Haney simply inserts righthanders Del Crandall, Nippy Jones and Pafko in place of Sawatski, Torre and Hazle.

The pitching, too, has been strengthened by the comeback of Gene Conley and the recall from Wichita of Don McMahon, who who quickly developed into an ace reliever.

It is doubtful if the Braves would be out in front today if it hadn't been for the reserves.

A regional meet will be held in Kansas City Oct. 12-13 and several Sedalians plan to attend.

The club has a 1932 Ford coupe to build up as a club project, but there is a need for garage space in which to begin work. Information on such space can be turned in to the club by calling 6260 or 7112.

SAFETY GLASS—Rear-view mirrors combined with traffic lights is the latest safety innovation in Ghent, Belgium. Mounted at dangerous intersections, the mirrors are designed to give motorists and streetcar operators a large and easily seen view of traffic as they swing out to turn the corner.

Yank Stumbling Keeps Door Open for Chicago White Sox

By ED WILKS
The Associated Press.

Memo to the Chicago White Sox: Don't just stand there, do something!

What more could an American League contender ask than to have the New York Yankees stumbling over every club in sight as late as September?

The Yankees suddenly have found their unbeatable bench unfrocked. The only club they've whipped in the past two weeks was the White Sox.

In their last 17 games, the champs have lost 10 for a 412 pace surpassed in futility only by the cellar chums, Kansas City and Washington. The White Sox after falling 6½ games behind in the Yankee sweep have lost three of six.

The Yankees kept the door open for Chicago again last night. They blew a 3-0 lead, missed a knock-out punch in a ninth-inning rally and finally lost 7-5 in 11 innings to Boston. That left the champs five games ahead of the idle White Sox.

The National League leader had a tough night, too. Milwaukee's lead over second place St. Louis dipped to 7½ games as the Cardinals defeated the Braves 5-4 in 12 innings. Third place Brooklyn hung on, belting Philadelphia 12-3. The Dodgers trail by nine.

Outstanding pitching highlighted the other games. Rookie Moe Drabowsky halted the Chicago Cubs' losing string at seven with a two-hit, 1-0 first game victory over Cincinnati's Bud Podbielan, who allowed just three hits. The Redlegs took the nightcap 7-2.

Pete Daley, a .203 hitter, blooped a bases-loaded single that capped a three-run rally and led to a 5-5 tie for the Red Sox, then stayed in the game and rapped a two-run homer in the 11th. George

Urges Ike Put Ban On Segregated Sports

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Rep. James C. Fulton (R-Pa.) urges President Eisenhower to ban all U. S. military school, academy and service teams from participating in segregated sports events.

In a telegram to the President, Fulton specifically asked that the Army be ordered not to play its scheduled football game with Tulane at New Orleans Nov. 16.

The congressman said yesterday he based his protest on a law passed by the Louisiana legislature in 1956 that prohibits interracial sports participation and integrated seating.

At West Point, Lt. Gen. Garrison H. Davidson, superintendent of the military academy, refused to comment on Fulton's wire. He released a copy of a telegram to Fulton explaining that the Department of the Army had granted permission to proceed with the Army-Tulane game.

Presidential press Secretary James C. Hagerty said he knew nothing about Fulton's wire.

Fulton said that because of the Louisiana law, the University of Pittsburgh withdrew as a possible candidate for a Sugar Bowl football game, the University of Wisconsin cancelled a football game with Louisiana State University and the Universities of Notre Dame, Dayton and St. Louis asked to be dropped from a Sugar Bowl basketball tournament.

lief help in the seventh. Ernie Banks' 33rd home run won it in the fifth for the Cubs while Drabowsky retired the first 18 in order. He gave up only a triple to Johnny Temple in the seventh and a pinch-single by Jerry Lynch in the ninth, while walking none and fanning five for his 10th victory.

The Redlegs broke out for 13 hits in the nightcap while Joe Nuxhall won his ninth with a nine-hitter. Two doubles by Gene Freese, the first driving in a first-inning run and the second coming ahead of Dick Groat's single, won for Friend, now 11-17. Rookie Mike McCormick lost it for a 3-1 record.

Jan Murray Is Surprised At TV Success

By WILLIAM GLOVER
NEW YORK (AP)—Most surprised performer of the new television season is Jan Murray.
A "calculated risk" and a "relaxed outlook" have sent his TV career off on a happy new slant, beginning when "Treasure Hunt," a show he ran last season on Friday nights over the ABC network, was shifted to NBC, slotted on a five-a-week basis from 10:30 to 11 a.m. (EDT).
It was then Murray took his gamble. One morning he invited the viewing audience to mail in post cards with name, address and a number from 1 to 30.
It was the first time he had ever sought a response from viewers.
The idea was, whenever studio contestants failed to pick a chest containing the cash jackpot ($1,000 plus $100 for each day it is untapped, one of the postals would be drawn. If the card happened to have the number of the jackpot chest (changed daily), the viewer would get the dough.

By the end of the first week, 417,000 cards had flooded in.
Along the way, "Treasure Hunt" also became the first NBC show to top the half hour rating of the Arthur Godfrey show over on CBS. (Godfrey himself is away, but he's been away before, a spokesman pointed out).
Aside from such surprise avalanche, Murray insists, daytime television has changed a lot of his notions. (He hasn't been completely cut off from night time work, since he also conducts "Dollar a Second" over NBC on Saturday evenings).
"The trouble with a big show containing the cash jackpot ($1,000 plus $100 for each day it is un-every program has to be the rise and fall of Pompeii. If a show is no good, you've got to wait a whole week to get another chance at the audience."

Murray, a veteran comedian of the night club circuit, is also a great believer in the durability of quiz shows.
"The biggest question in TV is survival," he says. "A show with a gimmick or a situation comedy is the only way a comic can survive in this business for more than two years."
With this in mind, Murray is working on four or five other packages which he hopes may provide opportunity for fellow madcaps.

Develops Miniature Nuclear Reactor

CANOGA PARK, Calif. (AP)—A miniature nuclear reactor that can be operated by one man has been developed for use in school, medical and industrial laboratories. The price: $55,000.
Its developers, Atomic International, a division of North American Aviation, Inc., said the reactor is cylindrical, eight feet high and eight feet in diameter. Its core is a stainless steel sphere containing a solution of uranyl sulfate.
The reactor, which can be installed without special facilities, is designed to be used to make demonstrations and conduct experiments.

To Puff for '57 Title

LAKE PLACID, N.Y. (AP)—Pipe smokers will puff it out here Sunday for the 1957 championship.
The title goes to the smoker who can puff the longest on 3.3 grams of burley tobacco. Each contestant gets two matches and the pipe must be going in 60 seconds.
Max Igree of Flint, Mich., won last year. He smoked for 125 minutes, 7 seconds.

Hal Kanter Says Women Lack Humor

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Do women have a sense of humor?
Comedy expert Hal Kanter doesn't think so.
Before you start getting indignant, ladies, let me explain Kanter's credentials. He is one of the ace comedy writers in a highly competitive business, having dreamed up sallies for such artists as Bing Crosby, Ed Wynn, Martin and Lewis and George Gobel. Right now he's masterminding the film debut of a new team, Rowan and Martin, in "Once Upon a Horse," which he is producing, directing and writing.
That's who Hal Kanter is. He's also tall, charming and likes the opposite sex. Except on matters of humor.
"Go to a matinee of a comedy hit on Broadway," he suggested. "You'll find the predominantly female audience reacting in mild laugh. They're inhibited. The laugh is caught somewhere in their girdles. They're afraid to laugh harder because their lipstick might run or their mascara smear."
"There are few really good comedies compared to the number of comedians. The success of Lucille Ball in television is the exception that proves the rule. But I've never heard anybody say, 'Gee, Lucille was a scream at the Masquer's Club last night when she got up and ad libbed.'"
The average woman never fails to foul up a funny story when she tries to tell it, he added.
Since he is so firm about the female lack of humor, I asked him if he therefore writes his funny stuff primarily for men.
"No," he replied. "I don't write for anyone in particular. I recall what Goodman Ace said. He had heard people say he should write comedy for 12-year-olds in Iowa. He remarked that he took a plane out to Des Moines and talked to a lot of 12-year-olds.
"What did he find out? That 12-year-olds in Iowa knew a lot more and were aware of more that was going on than most 40-year-olds on Madison Avenue."

Health Organization Approves Fluoridation Of Drinking Water

GENEVA (AP)—A report by the World Health Organization says only fluoridation of drinking water can halt tooth decay on a large scale.
The report declared the "effectiveness, safety and practicability of fluoridation as a means of preventing dental caries (cavities) is now established."
The report was based on a survey of fluoridation programs in 17 countries, some of them in progress more than 12 years.
The survey showed the "prevalence of dental caries in permanent teeth of children decreased some 60 per cent," the report said.
Fluoridation of drinking water has been the subject of much controversy in many U.S. and Canadian cities.

Credit Due Inoculations Ending Fear of Killers

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.

It is difficult for many people to realize what a terrible toll in illness and death was taken by some contagious diseases. Certainly our better chances for long life are due greatly to the fact that many of these diseases have become rare.

One reason for the conquest of these infections is the development and use of preventive vaccinations or inoculations.

Today, in North America, most children are given their first protective vaccinations early in life. But they have to be followed up by booster immunizations later on to keep up resistance.

Today it is customary to give injections within the first few weeks of life, or certainly the first few months. The diseases concerned are diphtheria, whooping cough and tetanus or lockjaw. In many instances these injections can be given in combined form against two or even three of these diseases.

An infant has some natural immunity to smallpox at birth so that vaccination against smallpox is often given a little later.

Inoculations should be repeated in later years of childhood and even in adult life, under certain circumstances, if one would keep resistant. Fortunately, the regulations of schools, summer camps and the like frequently serve as reminders of the need.

Although these protective vaccinations are the most common—or at least have been—there are others which are desirable. The most recent addition is polio vaccination. I believe that today this should also be given routinely to children at the proper age.

Among others is vaccination against typhoid fever, a germ disease usually contracted from contaminated fluids or food. If a person is going to some part of the world where the sanitation is poor, inoculation against typhoid and possibly other diseases may be desirable. Under special circumstances, one may also need protective inoculations against yellow fever, cholera, typhus, Rocky Mountain spotted fever and others.

The advice of the physician who takes care of the child from birth should be followed when it comes to giving protective inoculations. Physicians do not all handle the situation exactly alike.

Three Entry Classes

Excitement Reigns at Flower's As Doll Exhibit Judging Nears

There is a great deal of excitement this week in the millinery department at Flower's as a section of shelves takes on the appearance of a toy shop and each doll is certain it is the very top in its class, and so are the girls who made them.

This is the contest sponsored by the magazine Seventeen, and the three classes are: character dolls, fashion dolls and baby dolls.

The dolls will be judged at 4 p.m. Friday and the winning dolls will be sent to the national contest where the one chosen as the best in the nation will win for her little maker a trip to Europe where she will present in person her doll and all of the dolls made by the teenage girls of America. So whether a girl is a winner or not she is happy that she has played a part in giving some little youngster a doll—perhaps their first.

It was with this spirit that one girl made a doll that really should be a winner, but won't, because the youngster was just two weeks too young to enter the contest. She wanted to make a doll anyway and send it to some little girl in a far away land. All the girls were given to make these dolls were a plastic doll's face and a white sock for which they paid a quarter. They could do anything they wanted to with the face and so this little girl tinted it a nice chocolate brown, colored the blue eyes black, changed the mouth, dyed the white sock brown and made an "Aunt Jemima" doll, with blue dress, white waist apron that ties in the back with a bow, white kerchief around her neck and a red badana on her head.

Among the character dolls is Uncle Sam with his red and white striped trousers that fit to perfection, his dark blue long tailed coat with one button and buttonhole, his white shirt with little white pearl buttons and black tie, his shoes of real black leather with soles and laces, and beneath his top hat with its dark blue brim, its red and white striped crown, and its star spangled band, was Uncle Sam's receding hair line with his white hair in a peak on top. On his chin was his white yarn goatee.

Dale Evans had her Western togs with black shirt, little black velvet beaded vest, red satin shirt, big white hat, and white belt and gauntlet gloves both beaded in red and black boots with soles on them. Dale also had her horse—a stick horse, that is—with white yarn mane and button eyes.

Cinderella has a lovely dress of light rose taffeta with ruffles of blue net and golden high heel slippers. Her chignon or yellow hair was covered with a net that looked like it might have been made of Cinderella's own yarn hair. She wore long lace gloves to complete her costume.

Among the Oriental dolls were Ming Ling, with her blue kimono, with a tiny fan tucked in her wide sash, and her tiny feet had typical Japanese shoes. In her straight black yarn hair with front bangs was tucked a flower. Then there was Madame Butterfly. Her kimono was black background with Japanese print with pink Oriental type collar and matching wide sash. Her black hair was typically styled in Japanese fashion adorned with ornaments and her tiny feet had Japanese shoes.

She and Tommy, the Towncrier, had come a long way to join the group of Sedalia dolls. They were sent by St. Louis girls from Cape Cod where they were vacationing. Tommy wore a grey suit with black belt fastened with a big silver buckle. There were silver buckles on his black shoes, too. The suit was typical of the Puritan days even to the big white collar and cuffs. On his black bobbed hair was a big black hat.

From a Scandinavian country came Tina with her full red skirt with its gay trim, her black blouse and her long yellow yarn braids. The Littlest Angel wore a pink dress covered with pink stars. There were pink stars on her cancan skirt of pink net, too, and even on her little panties. Her yarn hair was white and she wore a little gold and rhinestone halo.

Alice in Wonderland wore a blue dress with white pinafore and her blond braids were tied with blue ribbon. Baby Satan was a typical little red devil with horns, tail, pitchfork and cape. Becky Sue wore an orchid checked dress with bodice laced with black velvet and little black bows all over the dress as well as on bonnet. Beneath her stiff skirt were pantaloons. Becky Sue's hair was black and in nice round firm curls.

Miss Empire State had a blue dress with beading trim "rough" which ribbon was run. Her hair was real hair and her large blue hat was edged in lace. She had fingered hands, too. Pioneer Jane in pink and white gingham with ruffle on the edge had a white jacket and a white bonnet with red ruffle edge and long black braids. Sacajawea was an Indian girl with light brown skin and black hair and lots of beads.

Bo Peep had yellow braids and bangs and wore a full skirted white organdy dress with small red dots. Her bonnet matched her dress. Little Red Riding Hood also had yellow braids and her skirt, cap, cape, and mittens were all red.

Her little blouse is white. Sun Bonnet Sue of course wore a big blue sun bonnet and a blue dress with white pinafore. Her hair was in long black braids, too.

The above are all character dolls.

In the fashion class was Cynthia, with black bobbed hair, blue jumper, princess style, bra effect with full skirt. Her pink blouse had short sleeves with rows of ruffles, and buttoned with three pink buttons. Her large blue hat had a flower crown and a flower underneath the wide brim. Her ruffled panties had pink bows and she wore a cancan skirt. Cynthia carried a clutch bag on which were flowers.

Angela even wore nylon hose with the seam up the back. Her dress and hat were brown, both trimmed with tiny white lace. Beneath her full skirt was a cancan skirt and she carried a pocket book. Her light brown hair was about the color of her dress.

June was a blond girl with white lace dress and bridal veil. She wore a strand of pearls, no doubt a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a nosegay of flowers. June was fully dressed, even to her bra.

Another bride was in pink satin with fingertip veil of pink net. She had black hair and carried a blue colonial bouquet.

Among the babies was Tina, in a pink blanket with bows on it. Her little white dress lace trimmed as was her white baby cap which

An Easy Sentence

DALLAS — General Anderson got off with what some soldiers would consider a light court-martial. He pleaded guilty to a charge of theft. Judge Henry King gave him a three-year suspended sentence.

was lined with pink. She wore a pink sock.

Susan was the only redhead in the bunch. Her dress and bonnet were of white material with pink rosebuds and she wore crocheted booties in pink and white. Her panties had elastic. Susie wore a dress of blue and white dotted material with baby ric-rac trim. Her blue bonnet had white ruffles and blue bows. Tammy Sue had on a pink dress and cap with lace trim. Her slip had pink and blue stitching—and she had on a diaper.

Yes, indeed, a lot of ideas came out of just a little plastic doll face and one white sock, and not all the dolls are in yet. The little faces were changed with the slanting of the eyes for the Japanese doll, different type mouths, the adding of yarn or painted eyebrows. Every one cleverly done and a lot of little girls in foreign lands will be made happy. The dolls came from St. Louis, Kansas City, Jefferson City, and all towns surrounding Sedalia.

IN ARKANSAS — William D. Richeson, son of Mrs. Ina Richeson, Knob Noster, who enlisted in the Army, is stationed at Ft. Chaffee, Ark., for basic training. He graduated from Knob Noster High School in 1953 and received his BS degree from CMSC this past May.

Here's Another Proof for Pudding

NEW APPROACH to old-fashioned dessert: top bread pudding with jelly and meringue.

By CECILY BRONSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

When youngsters are back at school again and the whole family is home for the evening meal, it's time to whip up a bread pudding.

That good old-fashioned dessert may be flavored many ways; here are ideas for varying it:

1. Add flaked coconut just as it comes from the can—about a tablespoon to a cup of fresh bread cubes; then top with whipped cream, whipped evaporated milk or whipped non-fat dry milk solids. Garnish the topping with wisps of toasted coconut.

2. Coarsely chopped walnuts and slivered dates make ordinary bread pudding exceptionally delicious.

3. Bread pudding may be flavored with grated lemon rind instead of vanilla.

4. Cooked dried apricot halves may be layered with bread cubes before the custard mixture is poured over.

5. Raisin bread may be used in a pudding.

6. Brown sugar instead of white gives pleasant flavor, especially when pecans are also added.

7. Orange juice may be substituted for part of the milk and grated orange rind used instead of vanilla.

8. Bread pudding may be baked in custard cups instead of in one large casserole. Usually the amount of pudding baked in a 1 1/2 quart casserole is enough to fill eight cups.

Bread Pudding With Jelly and Meringue

Ingredients: 6 slices bread, 2 tablespoons butter or margarine (soft), 2 eggs (separated), 3 tablespoons sugar, 1/2 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg, 2 cups milk, 1/4 teaspoon vanilla, currant jelly, 1/4 cup sugar, 1 tablespoon lemon juice.

Method: Spread bread with butter and cut into 1/2-inch cubes.

Place in a buttered 1 1/2-quart casserole. Beat egg yolks, 3 tablespoons sugar, salt and nutmeg together vigorously; gradually beat in milk, then vanilla. Pour over bread cubes. Bake in moderate

(350 degrees) oven for 45 minutes; cool. Spread a thin layer of currant jelly over the pudding. Beat egg whites until foamy; gradually beat in 1/4 cup sugar; beat thoroughly after each addition and continue beating until meringue stands up in stiff straight peaks when beater is slowly withdrawn. Fold lemon juice into meringue mixture. Spread over top of pudding. Place

1/2 teaspoons of jelly into swirls of meringue. Return to moderate

(350 degrees) oven until meringue is lightly browned—about 15 minutes. Serve warm. Makes 8 to 10

servings.

Spice Is Nice at Snack Time

SPICY SNACK: Spiced tea and sponge spice squares add zest to this tray of sandwiches flanked by apples and grapes at each end.

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

A Snack Tray that's pretty and practical! It's arrayed with apples and grapes at each end and is centered with three rectangular plastic containers holding sandwiches and cookie bars. The containers are a good idea because they do double duty for storing and serving.

For the sandwiches you might choose deviled ham and chopped chicken on white bread and orange flavored cream cheese on date and nut bread. The cookies are the sponge cake type and if you have been looking for a recipe of this sort that isn't very sweet, you will appreciate this one. With this food we can think of nothing better than mugs of spiced tea.

Spiced Tea

Brew the tea in a teapot, using loose tea or teabags and water that has just been brought to a good boil; allow the tea to steep for 5 minutes. You may want to use one teaspoon or one teabag for every cup of tea plus an extra for the pot; or you may wish to add more tea or extra teabags if, as we do, you cherish very strong cups of this bracing beverage. Float a clove-studded lemon slice in each mug and insert a cinnamon stick through the center of each. Pass the sugar!

Sponge Spice Squares

Ingredients: 1 cup sifted flour, 1/2 teaspoon double acting baking powder, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 3 teaspoons ground cinnamon, 1/2 teaspoon ground nutmeg, 1/4 teaspoon ground cloves, 1/2 cup butter or margarine, 1/2 cup sugar, 2 eggs, 1/2 cup medium fine chopped blanmonds (if desired).

Method: Sift together the flour, baking powder, salt, cinnamon, nutmeg and cloves. Cream butter and sugar; beat in eggs thoroughly. Sift in the dry ingredients gradually, gently blending with spoon.

Fold in chopped almonds. Turn into ungreased baking pan 9x9x2 inches—and spread evenly; top with whole almonds if used. Bake in moderate (350 degrees) oven until cake tester inserted in center comes out clean — 15 to 18 minutes. Place pan on rack to cool.

Grill Fish for Backyard Feast

SUMMER AND EARLY FALL cookouts call for a change of culinary pace. Try these delicious grilled fish steaks, tomatoes.

By Cecily Brownstone
Associated Press Food Editor

An end-of-the-season cookout we strongly recommend is one of grilled fish steaks and whole tomatoes. The fish is marinated in a seasoned olive oil and lemon juice mixture, and the marinade is used during the grilling of fish and tomatoes.

This combination is perfect for backyard cookery. When we tested the recipe in the garden patio of our New York house, we used just one layer of charcoal briquets (about 24) in our large outdoor grill, and the cooking time was 20 minutes. The fish steaks were put on a fine meshed grate, which we had greased copiously, and we had a long handled wide spatula on hand for turning them.

Soup was the first course for this meal. Accompanying the fish and whole tomatoes were crisp potato sticks. We emptied these out of their can onto a square of foil that had its edges turned up, and heated them at the edge of the grill. (Potato chips could, of course, be served instead of the sticks.) Our salad was one of shredded green cabbage garnished with fluted cucumber slices and a dusting of paprika; the dressing for the salad was oil and vinegar plus seasonings, but the liquid from a jar of bread and butter pickles was also used as part of the vinegar. Fruit and cookies rounded off this pleasant and satisfying supper.

Grilled Fish Steaks And Tomatoes

Ingredients: 4 portions swordfish steaks about 3/4-inch thick (2 to 2 1/2 pounds), 1/4 cup olive oil, juice of one lemon (3 tablespoons), 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, 1/4 teaspoon paprika, 1/2 teaspoon dry mustard, bay leaves, 4 medium large tomatoes (1 1/4 to 1 1/2 pounds), extra salt, 1 teaspoon instant minced onion.

Method: Wipe fish steaks with a damp cloth; arrange in a shallow dish. Beat well with a fork the olive oil, lemon juice, 1/4 teaspoon salt, 1/4 teaspoon pepper, paprika and the mustard. Pour over fish; place a bay leaf on top of each portion. Cover and refrigerate for 2 to 4 hours, basting several times and turning steaks. If necessary to have tomatoes stand straight, cut a thin slice from bottoms; slice off tops, cut out any stem ends. Score tops of tomatoes, making 6 criss-cross cuts in each; do not make cuts more than 1/4-inch deep so tomatoes will keep their shape during grilling. Sprinkle tomatoes with extra salt and the instant onion, tucking some of the onion into the cuts. Place fish and tomatoes on well greased fish and tomatoes on well greased of glowing coals. Place bay leaves from marinade, on top of steaks. Spoon a little of the marinade over tops of tomatoes. Cook fish, turning with wide spatula, until they are cooked through, flake easily and are lightly browned—about 20 minutes. (On fine-meshed grate bay leaves will stick to fish if the steaks are turned carefully.) Tomatoes will take about the same time as steaks; if they are hot through and softened before, remove with wide spatula and keep warm at side of grill. After they are cooked, both fish and tomatoes may need extra salt and both will benefit from freshly ground pepper. The bay leaves add a faint but interesting flavor.

Note: We used fresh swordfish steaks in testing this recipe, but you may wish to try another firm fleshed fish such as halibut.

Reward Trips Season Gets Second Wind

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Vacation days are over for most Americans but the season for sales conventions and trips as a reward for selling is just catching its second wind.

Full dress sales meetings come to around 2,500 a year. Add in the regional conventions and the pep conclaves of small companies and the number is estimated to be as high as 70,000, averaging out at a cost of $30,000 a year for big companies, although a convening of the corporate clan at Miami Beach may go as high as $220,000. The total spent on national sales conventions is estimated as 150 million dollars a year.

Incentive selling with a trip as the prize is on the increase. The average trip is for a week to 10 days with wives usually included.

Some of these come high. Example: 700 appliance dealers in the general area of New York City vied for five months to increase sales 25 per cent. The value of the prizes totalled $300,000, involving 300 free trips to Europe for winning salesmen and their wives.

One household appliance maker reports staging a 13 week promotion that sold 20 million dollars of its products. The cost of the campaign and the prize trips came to less than five per cent of the added sales volume.

How much industry spends each year on these incentive selling contests isn't known, but Martin B. Iger, who heads a convention engineering service, says it must run into millions of dollars.

Agencies specializing in handling meetings for the big corporations say they can save money on the trips through experience and bulk buying. Also they shoulder all the arranging and scheduling—and all the gripes, such as poor rooms, tough steaks, bad liquor.

Iger says he once got a call from a man who had just returned from a Miami Beach corporate outing with the wrong suitcase. Even stronger than his wish to have his own luggage back was his urge to get rid of the one he'd picked up by mistake — it contained 50 live turtles, painted green and inscribed "Welcome to Miami."

Survey Shows Small Percentage Join High School Fraternities

By Eugene Gilbert

Do fraternities and sororities have a proper place on the high school campus? As schools take up again, teen-age opinion is divided sharply on the subject, with the opposing camps of nearly equal strength.

Our nationwide survey on this topic, which occasionally has agitated parents and educators, showed 56 per cent of the girls and 40 per cent of the boys hostile to the organizations. And it produced a spate of widely contrasting comments.

A high school student from Southern California, for instance, insisted that "It's the do-gooders and creeps who hate fraternities and sororities. These groups are an important part of high school life and should be strengthened rather than outlawed."

But a 17-year-old boy felt the clubs are "un-American" and should be barred. "Nothing breeds prejudice more quickly," an 18-year-old girl noted, "than clubs where one group is free to exclude whomever they want."

Generally, those in the anti-fraternity forces argued that they "build up a sense of inferiority in people not invited to join," limit one's social circle, and "make some people think they're better than others."

40% NO!

From the pro's came assertions that such organizations have "always been a part of American school life and belong there." Said one high school sophomore, "They have them on nearly every college campus. Why not in high school?"

But the actual membership of these bodies is fairly small, the survey indicates. Only 11 per cent of boys between 13 and 15 years belong, and 23 per cent of those 16 and older. High school sororities enrolled only 9 per cent of girls from 13 to 15, and 17 per cent of older girls. The survey covered schools both with and without fraternal organizations.

Hostility on the part of many education officials doubtless has been an important factor in inhibiting the growth of the associations. Nationally, the picture is "an extremely spotty one," says Dr. Ellsworth Tompkins, Asst. Superintendent of the National Assn. of Secondary School Principals in Washington.

Most larger states have banned them, he noted, and the "general tendency" in localities where the societies are permitted is for educators to try to minimize their influence through a varied fare of regular school activities.

"I don't believe high school fraternities and sororities are growing nationally," the educator said. "They're on their way out in some places, although they have presented a persistent problem in some cities."

TAKE HOME A CARTON!

In the nation's capital, the associations are permitted but lack formal recognition by school authorities, according to Dr. Carl F. Hansen, Asst. Superintendent of the District of Columbia Board of Education.

"They shouldn't be part of school activities," he added, "because they're undemocratic in character—exclusive, clannish and cliqueish."

Only one out of four of the non-members we queried admit they would like to join if invited.

"All the campus big wheels are members," explained a 15-year-old West Virginian, who would be only too happy. "I certainly would like to get in with some of them." And a Charlotte, N. C., school girl: "I stuck out three years without sororities, and I finally decided I missed more than I gained."

So I am joining one this term."

From the independents who plan to stay that way there were some barbed comments.

"The sorority sisters at my school are all a bunch of phonies," a 14-year-old Florida girl declared. A Chicago girl: "The sororities are too clannish for my taste. Even if they control most of the school events, I feel I am better off steering clear of them."

What are the advantages of belonging? Those young people who do, listed companionship, lessons in cooperation and social polish, and good times, among other things.

"I never knew what friendship meant," a 17-year-old boy said, "until I got sick and my fraternity brothers coached me until I could pass all my makeup examinations."

The social side was stressed by a sorority girl who said: "We fix up many girls with dates who otherwise would never have any. And you'd be surprised how quickly those girls develop confidence in themselves."

Non-members — 68 per cent of them, anyhow — feel that no appreciable advantage attaches to belonging to the organizations. "All you learn is how to survive in a clique," a Newark boy observed.

"I want to choose my own friends."

The great majority of the teenager we queried said they would not join the "best" fraternity on the campus if their friends were excluded. Seventy-seven per cent of the girls and 68 per cent of the boys felt old associations were too valuable to sacrifice for the sake of climbing into an "elite" organization.

Said a 15-year-old student: "My gang and I have been together since grade school. I couldn't think of breaking the whole thing up to join a frat."

Kind Words Are Benedictions

Truly kind words are benedictions which lighten burdens of the day. They require so little effort in uttering, yet they are abundant in cumulative energy.

Newspaper carriers are often victims of complaints—some deserving, some not in the common pattern of protests. But by and large these youngsters are more efficient day in and day out than some of their elders. Seldom does efficiency win paudits, however.

So it is stimulating the same day to read and listen to compliments by subscribers in different parts of town respecting their carrier boys. One actually wrote in behalf of neighbors in a four-block area commenting she had not noticed him receiving any awards, but that he was the best paper boy they had had in six years, and all the neighbors were of like opinion about the manner in which delivery and collections were made. Getting the paper on the porch out of the weather is considered flawless service if it is followed up by courtesy in collections. That's the crux of another comment by telephone.

All the employees of the newspaper are grateful for this subscriber's supplementary observation: "We appreciate having such a good newspaper as our Sedalia Democrat; the standards it maintains, and the carriers who make it convenient for us to enjoy our news without getting upset because we have to search our yards for it."

We're probably sticking our neck out and inviting brickbats for using that last paragraph but we would like to opine that such words are stimulating nectar to those who work on the paper and feel their efforts all up and down the line are appreciated.

It's the same way with show people, if you noticed how they responded during presentation of Holiday on Ice in front of the Missouri State Fair grandstand recently. A big hand of applause always pepped up the performers and encouraged an extra effort on their part.

The confirmed cynic may believe society in the main is ill-tempered and ill-mannered, unappreciative of life itself.

But there are enough gracious souls whose kind words, verbal or written, add zest to life and put to contradiction the dismal opinions of the pessimists.

Underworld Loan Racket Exposed

By JACK ANDERSON

MIAMI BEACH — Biggest racket in Miami Beach today is an under-the-table loan business financed by the underworld.

The borrower can get all the cash he wants without red tape. But he mortgages his health; if he misses his payments, he can expect a brutal beating. The interest rates, too, are steep: Up to 20 per cent a week.

Chief shylock is Joe Milstein, transplanted New York racketeer, who runs a dive called Joe's Bar as a front, but loans mobster money out of a plush, red-trimmed back office.

Milstein also practices blackmail on the side. He is now trying to shake down a Georgia theater owner in one of the weirdest blackmail plots ever cooked up.

Underworld sources claim Milstein is bankrolled by New York's racket boss, Vincent Alo, alias "Jimmy Blue Eyes." But Milstein is also known to have financial ties with a California racketeer, Julius "Joe" Bloom.

The Russian-born Milstein has a police record in New York City dating back to 1916. His cronies in crime was Isadore "Izzy the Eel" Rapoport until they were arrested for grand larceny in 1946. A record of Milstein's phone calls indicates he is on speaking terms with the nation's most notorious gangsters.

Sucker List

Lesser loan sharks also handle racket money in the Miami area. This column can supply police with their addresses: barbershops, liquor stores, and other fronts. But the acknowledged kingpin of them all is bald, brittle Joe Milstein.

His sucker list is made up mostly of small businessmen who can't negotiate legitimate loans but are anxious to invest in the Miami boom. One witness swears he was present, however, when Milstein counted out $100,000 for a big borrower.

Hard-up hoods also come to Milstein for a stake—at the usual interest rates. One recent customer is Johnny Dio, the tight-lipped racketeer who refused to testify on his connections with Teamster Vice President Jimmy Hoffa. Johnny and his brother Frankie reportedly are paying off Milstein at the rate of $1,000 a month.

Bob Finstein, who lost money operating ex-heavyweight champ Rocky Marciano's Miami Beach restaurant, admitted to this column that he had borrowed from Milstein. Finstein denied a report, however, that he had been beaten up in Las Vegas and Beverly Hills when he tried to run out on a debt.

"Mr. Milstein is a fine gentleman," Finstein said.

Black Mail Plot

One who wouldn't agree is a Georgia theater owner who dated Milstein's girlfriend, shapely Pat Nealey, not long ago. Milstein checked the Georgian's Dunn-and-Bradstreet rating, then threatened to sue him for alienation of affections.

The threatened lawsuit was only a cloak for as ingenious a shakedown as ever has been attempted. First, Milstein had the Georgian thoroughly investigated and got a report on him a quarter-inch thick. Then Milstein paid a pro-

The Silent Explosion

In all this talk of the world population "explosion," not too clear an idea has been conveyed as to which countries are exploding the most. Usually there's an assumption that it's the Asiatic lands. But the ascertainable facts suggest otherwise.

United Nations studies show that the four nations with the highest birth rates are Mexico (46.5 per 1,000 population), Venezuela (46.4), Colombia (40.4), and Peru (32.2).

The first big Asiatic country in the list is India with a rate of 27.4. But this is not much greater than the current U.S. rate of 24.9 per 1,000. Russia stands at 25.6, and China is not listed, presumably because accurate figures are lacking.

We are actually almost outpacing India, since its death rate per 1,000 is 11.5 against 9.4.

But even though Mexico and Colombia have death rates exceeding India's, their net gains are tremendous. Lower death rates in Venezuela and Peru give them a staggering population advance.

It looks as if Latin America takes the palm in the population sweepstakes. If the trend continues they may have to take to eating palms.

The Pacific Ocean has an area of 63,985,000 square miles, more than twice the Atlantic's 31,529,000 square-mile area.

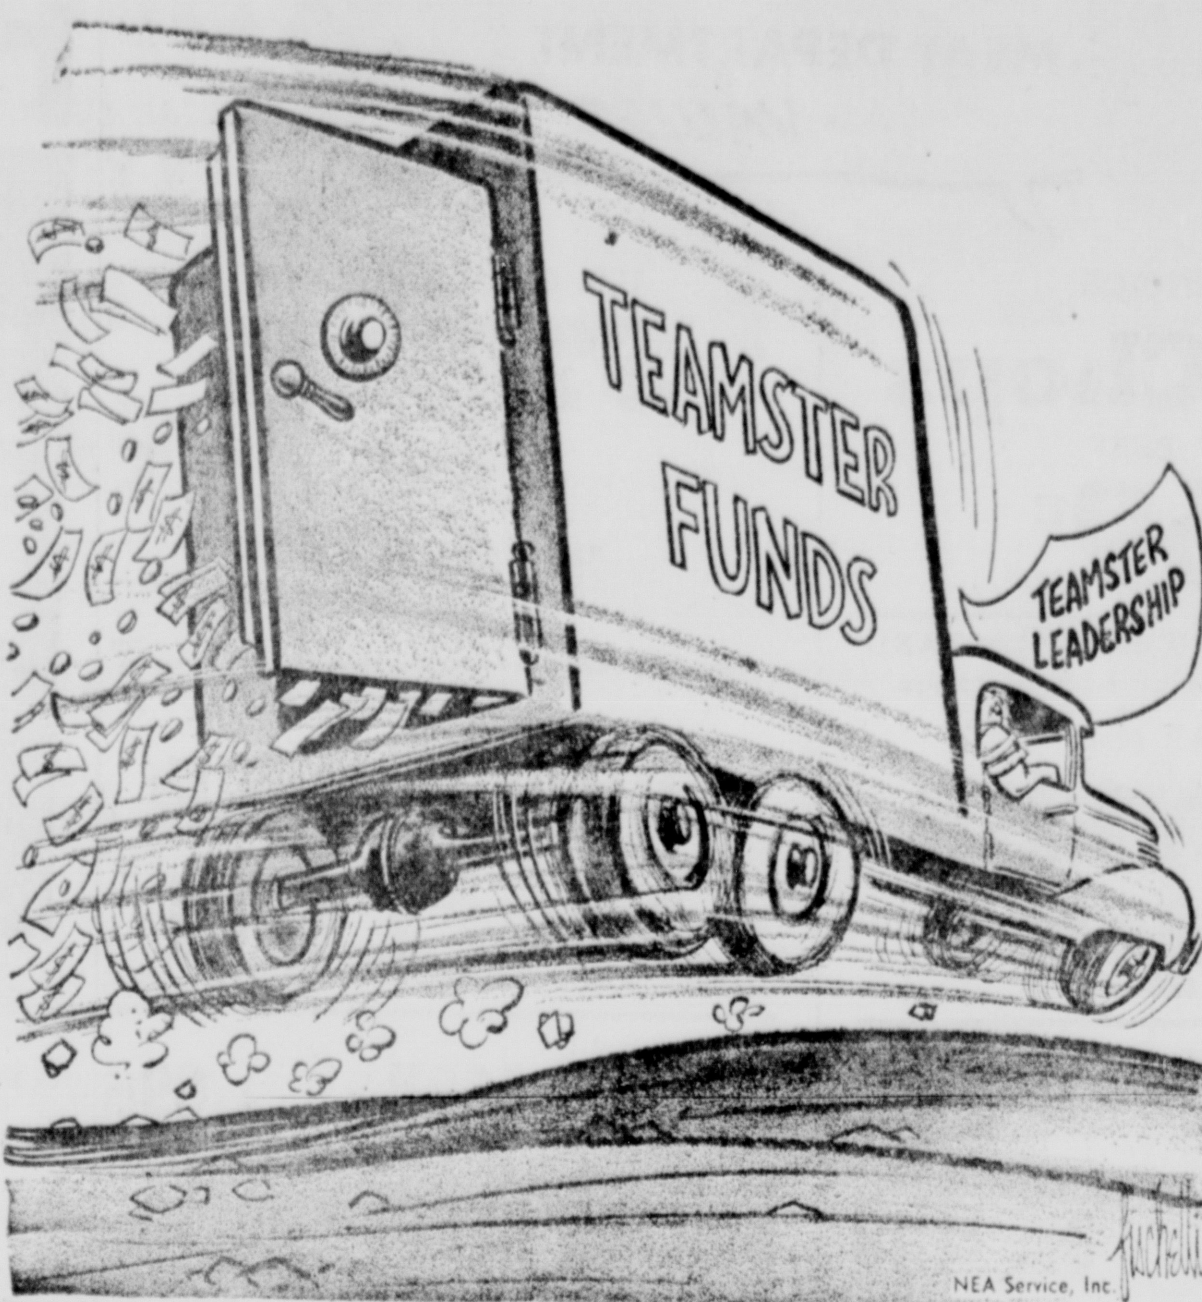

In dates, A.D. precedes the year and B.C. follows the year, as A.D. 1955 and 1955 B.C.

President or Governor Has to Back Down

By JAMES MARLOW
Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON — Someone has to back down on this one: President Eisenhower or Gov. Orval Faubus of Arkansas.

If Faubus gets away with what he's doing — using National Guardsmen to keep Negroes from a school ordered integrated by a federal judge — every Southern governor could feel free to do the same.

This would make a farce of the Supreme Court's ban on public school segregation. It would mean a breakdown of the federal government's power to carry out the law.

For almost 40 months since the court's ruling, Eisenhower has treated Southern resistance to integration with patience and platitudes. It seemed likely he could go on doing that as he prepared this week for a long vacation.

Some disturbances might occur at newly integrated schools opening this week. But that had hap-

Looking Backward...

TWENTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

"Jack" Truitt, several years ago in charge of the theatres here, was in the city Friday and Saturday. His headquarters were in Kansas City.

Mr. and Mrs. C. P. Brown, Des Moines, Ia., spent the Labor Day holiday season with his sister, Mrs. Joe Waddell, and other relatives.

Judgment for $35,000 in the Boone County Circuit Court to Mrs. Mildred Homan in a suit against the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. and Capitol Stage Lines, was affirmed by the Supreme Court of Missouri. Mrs. Homan was one of several persons injured Christmas day 1928 when a bus and string of freight cars were in collision on a spur track at a crossing on Main Street road. Four persons were killed in the accident.

Clement Ilmberger, son of Mr. and Mrs. Del Ilmberger, Route 5, and Cecil Comer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jesse Comer, 605 South Lafayette, left for Kirkwood, to enter St. Joseph's College to study for the priesthood.

Forty years ago

Two Maxwell motor trucks, purchased by popular volunteer subscription by Pettis Countians were taken to Camp Clark, Nevada, for delivery to soldier boys from here in mobilization camp there. Lt. Walter Wood and Sgt. F. G. Rose drove them, being accompanied by Charles W. Collins, secretary of the Sedalia Chamber of Commerce, and Roy Hinkle, representing the Missouri State Fair Association.

J. E. Thompson, a foreman at the Missouri Pacific shops, purchased an 80-acre farm from E. C. Vollrath. The farm was seven miles southeast of Sedalia.

Frank H. Smith, assistant ticket agent for the Missouri Pacific, was on a two-week vacation which he was spending at New York City, Washington, D.C., Atlantic City and other points in the east.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Flower and daughter, Miss Virginia, who spent six weeks in New York and other eastern points, arrived home. In New York they had dinner with Capt. George H. Scruton before he sailed for France for military duty.

pened before and there was no crisis. There appeared no reason to expect a crisis now. Then Faubus supplied it.

What he did he did twice.

Before a Little Rock high school opened this week federal Judge Ronald Davies had ordered it integrated. But when it opened Faubus had National Guardsmen there to keep Negroes out.

The school board, willing to enroll the Negroes but unable to do so because of the troops, asked Judge Davies what to do next. Again he ordered the school integrated. Again Faubus used the troops to keep Negroes out.

He said he wasn't deifying the court but only trying to keep peace and order. One thing was certain: he was not cooperating with the court to carry out its order; he was obstructing the carrying out of that order.

He would have been cooperating if he had used the troops to prevent any interference with the Negro children who wanted to go to the school. Instead, he used the troops to bar the children who were neither disturbing the peace nor creating disorder.

Eisenhower is staying in the background so far, letting the judge and the Justice Department headed by Atty. Gen. Brownell, do the acting for the government. But the ultimate responsibility for whatever is done rests on Eisenhower.

Brownell has ordered the FBI to investigate the Little Rock situation and report to Judge Davies. That could pave the way for contempt of court action against Faubus if the administration is willing to force Faubus' hand. Faubus himself, in a telegram to Eisenhower, said he understood plans were being discussed to take him into custody by force.

Ruth Millett Says

Sleep On, Lady, If Hubbie Wants That Morning Quiet

Before wives in the habit of letting husbands get themselves off in the morning change their routines, they'd better check with their husbands.

Apparently there are some men who hanker for that hour alone they get every morning while their wives sleep.

Here's what one of my men readers has to say on the subject:

"This letter is in regard to your recent column on the subject of the wife who doesn't get up to prepare her husband's breakfast and does not send him off to work with a kiss.

"Most of the husbands I know, myself included, prepare their own breakfasts, or eat in town and go to work without the wife getting up. WE LIKE IT THAT WAY.

"This may hurt feminine feelings, but we husbands enjoy periods of silence. We aren't would-be hermits, but the waking hours of the day are the only hours in which a fellow doesn't have to do anything except take care of the routine of starting a new day and enjoy the silence.

"I have done some of my best thinking while preparing and eating breakfast in silence. I read the papers and a couple chapters of some book I'm going through.

"Maybe we silence-lovers are a tiny minority, and you don't care about a tiny minority. But please, lady, don't take our cherished early morning peace and quiet away from us."

But I do care about a tiny minority that feels so strongly. That's

If Faubus backs down, he stands the chance of looking ridiculous. He's the first Southern governor to try anything like this. If he wasn't willing to see it through, he simply created a national disturbance needlessly.

If Faubus stands firm and the judge wants to bring him to court to face contempt charges, what happens? The governor has stationed National Guardsmen around his mansion, and U.S. marshals could hardly force him to face the judge if he doesn't want to.

If he refused to go, what would happen then? Somewhere along this line Eisenhower — provided he's willing to take a stand and back up the judge—may try in one way or another to persuade Faubus to back down as gracefully as he can.

Eisenhower who has never said he approved the Supreme Court's decision, has nevertheless repeatedly said he would back up the court's ban on segregation if he had to.

It isn't clear what Eisenhower's next step would be if Faubus ignored efforts at persuasion and, if ordered before the judge, refused to go. It's possible he might order the National Guardsmen into federal service to take control of them away from Faubus.

They are under Faubus's control unless the President calls them out for one of three reasons: to repel invasion, quell insurrection, or enforce the laws.

The Guardsmen are paid by the federal government for drills and summer training but they are paid by the state government—as they are now—when the governor calls them out to handle a situation within a state.

Why I'm amending that column encouraging wives to start their husbands off with a good breakfast, cheerful smile, and a goodbye kiss to read:

"Unless you happen to be married to a man who treasures the quiet hours of the morning when he is the only creature stirring in the house."

What Do You Pay For Gas? Try 'Toll Road Arithmetic'

By PETER EDSON
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Superhighway toll turnpikes — hailed only a few years ago as the solution for America's cross-country traffic congestion problems — are recognized today as a not-so-good answer. The reason is a simple problem in arithmetic which few car owners have taken the trouble to figure.

The average charge for driving on the 2,500 miles of U. S. toll roads now in operation is a cent and a half a mile.

If the average car owner gets 15 miles to the gallon out of the family bus, this means that he is paying the equivalent of an additional gasoline tax of 22.5 cents a gallon (15 miles at 1.5 cents a mile) just to drive on a toll road.

When it is figured further that the average price of super-grade gasoline is now around 32.5 cents a gallon, this 22.5 cents a gallon of added costs brings the gasoline price equivalent to 55 cents a gallon for toll road driving.

"If more motorists took the trouble to figure this out," says one highway official, "there'd be no clamor for toll roads."

There may be more safety on toll roads. They may be less fatiguing on drivers. There are no stop lights and there is more speed. But every one of these advantages has to be paid for. The New York-Chicago toll-road charge via the New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana turnpikes is nearly $11. Across New York it is $6.10. Across Massachusetts, $2.45. Kansas, $3.80.

Bureau of Public Roads experts cite these factors as reasons why increases of one or two cents a gallon in state and federal taxes to pay for new free highways is cheaper than driving on toll roads would be. Yet car owners scream protests when gas taxes are raised to pay for new highway construction, though they pay toll-road charges without protest.

The 2,500 miles of U. S. toll roads that have been built are given credit, however, for showing the public the advantages of a super-highway system. Without the toll-road examples, it would probably have been difficult to get Congress to pass the 1956 Highway Act.

It provides for building a 41,000-

"I SAW THEM slaughter a sheep at the fair," a youngster told his aunt.

"Oh, surely not," she said. "They wouldn't slaughter a sheep at the fair."

"Yes they did," insisted the boy. "They slaughtered a sheep just right near where I'm working." "Are you sure?" the aunt asked. "They sure did," the boy said emphatically. "They butchered the sheep right there. They took some big scissors and cut its wool off right there at the fair."—H.L.

His Secret Is Youthful Enthusiasm

HOLLYWOOD —The biggest shot in the arm for the ailing film industry has been 20th Century-Fox's full production policy. At a time when other studios have made no pictures in months limping along with scant filming, the Fox lot has been jumping. I caught up with production boss Buddy Adler to see how he manages to battle the trend.

The white-haired, handsome executive was visiting one of the sets on his bustling lot. A graduate of magazines and movie shorts, he is the successful producer of "From Here to Eternity" who succeeded Darryl Zanuck as headman.

The secret, he indicated, is youthful enthusiasm.

You've got to have excitement for this business to make good pictures," he said. "The ones who are doing important things are mainly the newcomers. They're discovering new things and trying new approaches. Many of the veterans who have made their mint are tired and slowing down."

For that reason, he said, he's bringing newcomers into the production end. Significantly, most of them are writers.

"I have great faith in writers," said Adler, who was one himself. "They are the really indispensable creators in this business. Even the greatest of directors can't make a great picture unless he has a great script."

Adler reported that he has delivered 30 pictures as this year's product and is now working on films for 1958. The success of his program is indicated by an 80 per cent jump in receipts.

In the Adler future book are some hot properties, including at least two blockbusters. One is "Peyton Place," which will run three hours and may be released as a roadshow. The other is the third of the studio's Rodgers and Hammerstein musicals, "South Pacific."

The executive feels that the rest of the film industry is awakening and trying to follow Fox's example. "I find the others are beginning to outbid me for story properties," he said.

Questions Tell Maturity Of Young Lovers

AP Newsfeatures

Psychologists have been airing the view that marriage is not for the immature youth, that the largest step in your life should be taken with firm feet on the ground. "Well, how do I know whether I'm immature?" many girls inquire, and a good question, too. They feel that if they are capable of holding a summer job, baby sit and do the family cooking when parents go off to the movies, they should be able to handle their own finances, children and keep a man alive with their cooking.

But marriage involves coping with a personality, and a girl who has not "grown up" for all her years, may still be immature in her dealings with people. One way to size up whether you are the "spoilt" type who'd find it difficult getting along with a man is to analyze your relationships with family, friends and classmates, people with whom you spend a good deal of time. You may still be too young-at-heart for marriage if you:

1. Feel you "just cannot live without" something your parents cannot afford to buy you.
2. Pout at meal time if you do not get the outside cut of roast beef or the drumstick of the turkey.
3. Get angry with a friend who is late for a date without waiting for an explanation.
4. Can't bring yourself to compliment your best friend's dress, and do your best to avoid mentioning it.
5. Are inconsiderate of others, playing the radio loud, slamming doors or lighting lights in rooms where others are sleeping.
6. Just can't bring yourself to act appreciative of a gift you do not like.
7. Corral the telephone or bathtub for long periods when other members of the family are waiting their turn.
8. Do not at least offer to replace the gas you use in the family car.
9. Do not lend a hand at home with chores, staying out of sight when the house is topsy-turvy.
10. Insist on having your own way in choosing entertainment when you are invited out.
11. Find it difficult to consider a beau's pocketbook when you order from a menu.
12. Are annoyed by older people and cannot hold a conversation with them without feeling you've wasted time.

If you are guilty of more than half of these faults, it may indicate you are too selfish to make some man happy. Better wait until you have greater understanding of people before you try to settle down to a lifetime of coping with situations you cannot handle now. The divorce rate in youthful circles should make any girl ponder before she takes that final step.

This test doesn't necessarily apply to the bride-to-be. It may be the prospective groom who needs a little maturing. Glance over this list and see how your steady date measures up.

Baptist Church Dedicates New Organ

The Concordia Baptist Church dedicated a new Hammond organ and hymnals during the church services Sunday morning. Each Sunday School department sponsored a program.

Following the service refreshments were served under the sponsorship of the ladies of the church.

Church, Synagogue Membership Rises To Record In 1956

NEW YORK — America's church and synagogue membership rose to a record total of 103,224,954 in 1956 — slightly more than 3,000,000 over 1955—the National Council of Churches reports.

This figures indicates that 62 out of every 100 Americans of all ages are members of a church or synagogue.

A century ago, 20 of every 100 Americans were members of a church.

The 1956 increase is reported in the Yearbook of American Churches, published by the National Council of Churches and released yesterday. The council is a federation of major Protestant and Eastern Orthodox Church bodies.

The figures are a compilation of official reports of religious bodies. Among the statistics included in the publication were these:

The over-all figures from churches and synagogues showed an increase of 3 per cent for 1956, compared with an estimated population rise of 1.7 per cent.
